SEEK BODIES OF WRECKED AIRMEN
Commission Will Probe Cause of Fatal Airplane Crash in California

San Diego, Calif.—Search was continued by naval authorities at Point Loma Thursday for the bodies of Lieut. H. Roby and J. Wierick, a naval radio operator, who fell to death Wednesday in the sea. The plane, when the aircraft dropped out of a tall spin into the Pacific ocean killing five and injuring three officers and men, all members of the crew. The plane was engaged in aerial target practice.

Witnesses said the plane went out of control at an altitude of 1,200 feet. Either the controls jammed or the aileron wire snapped, naval aviators said, and this accident sent the plane into a spin toward the surf where it plunged about 500 yards directly west of the officers' quarters at Dockwell field.

The official version of the tragedy will be heard before a naval board of inquiry appointed Thursday by Captain Stanford E. Moses, commander of the air squadrons attached to the battle fleet here.

RESIGNATION OF JUDGE AFFECTS STATE LINE CASE

New Commissioner Appointed to Hear Trial of Boundary Disputes

By Associated Press
Venomine, Mich.—Advices received from Washington by A. L. Sawyer, Michigan counsel in the Michigan Wisconsin boundary dispute case Wednesday afternoon, state that the resignation of Conway Elder, former judge of the Missouri Supreme Court and appointed commissioner to hear testimony in the case, had been accepted and that Mrs. M. J. Hout, Superior, has been appointed in his place.

Judge Elder's resignation was the direct outcome of a dispute over compensation for his services while acting as commissioner. It is understood he asked a fee of approximately $4,000 in excess of what the contracting states would consent to pay.

Thereupon the appointment of a new commissioner was asked. Finally Mr. Elder accepted the compensation offered and subsequently forwarded his resignation to Washington.

Testimony in the case will be resumed after the holidays, according to Mr. Sawyer.

SENATE APPROVES INCREASED NAVY

Washington, D. C.—The senate approved Thursday the naval construction bill authorizing a program expected to cost $110,000,000.

The bill provides for construction of eight light cruisers, six gunboats to be used on the Yangtze river in China, and the conversion of six battleships from coal to oil burners.

Good Fellows! The Poor Need Your Help Again

Preparations have been completed for the most intensive campaign ever conducted in Appleton for the relief of the city's poor and helpless. The three luncheon clubs have put their energies into the work so that every family in Appleton will have some degree of comfort this winter. The luncheon clubs are co-operating with the Appleton Post-Crescent to make the annual appeal for the relief of the needy reach every person in this city.

Every dollar that is raised by the Good Fellows will be given to the poor. The money given by the Good Fellows will be distributed to the five cooperating relief organizations in proportion to the amount of work they do. The relief organizations cooperating are the City Relief Society, Ladies Auxiliary of the Catholic Order of Foresters, Salvation Army, Jewish Ladies Aid society and the German Ladies Aid society. The women of these organizations have extensive experience in their work and know the wants of the poor.

Cooperation of the relief societies through the Appleton Welfare council prevents duplication of relief work. Names of needy families are checked over so that no family will be helped by two organizations and a central clearing house for the societies has been established.

The relief societies need about $3,000 to carry on their work for the year. It is proposed to secure that much for them. That means that Good Fellows will be asked to be more liberal in their contributions this year.

A personal solicitation campaign will be held on Dec. 17 and 18 in an effort to raise a large part of that money. Those who are not seen by solicitors are urged to send their membership fees in the Good Fellows club to the Good Fellows club editor of The Post-Crescent. Let your conscience and your heart determine the size of your fee.

Rondout Robbery Aides Get From 1 To 25 Years

Holliday, Glasscock and Four Newton Brothers Leave for Prison to Begin Serving Terms

Chicago—Herbert Holliday, Brent Glasscock and the four Newton brothers who pleaded guilty in the $2,000,000 mail train robbery trial, were sentenced to leave for the prison on Thursday, the sentences ranging from one year and one day to 25 years. Holliday received the maximum sentence. Holliday, a Kansas City, Mo., man, although he had pleaded guilty with the other five nevertheless had refused to add the government or turn over $100,000 in loot alleged by government agents still to be retained by him.

Brent Glasscock and Willis Newton, the chief of the actual robbers, and Jesse, Joseph and Willie Newton were the others.

Glasscock, Willis and Willie, the latter of whom was wounded during the robbery and who was brought into court Thursday on a stretcher, each was sentenced to serve 12 years.

Joseph Newton, 22, the youngest of the brothers, received a three-year sentence and Jesse, who did nothing more than help guard the loot, was let off by Federal Judge Cliffe with the lightest sentence, one year and one day.

William J. Fahy, former postoffice inspector, and James Murray, local politician who were charged with being the arch plotters, stood trial and were convicted. They already are serving 25-year sentences in Atlanta penitentiary.

DEATH CLAIMS NOTED FINANCE. SPORT MAGNATE

August Belmont, Financial Backer of New York Subway, Dies Suddenly

By Associated Press
New York—August Belmont, international finance magnate and sportsman, died in his East 40th street apartment Wednesday night after an illness of little more than one day's duration. A sudden attack of cellulitis complicated by blood poisoning, was given as the cause of his death. He was 71 years old. No definite funeral arrangements have been made, it was announced. The funeral would take place in the family plot at Newpark, E. I.

Mr. Belmont's death followed an operation performed on his right arm in his apartment Wednesday morning. He sank into unconsciousness at 4 P. M. and remained in a state of coma until he died at 8:30 apparently in good health. The first symptoms of the disease manifested themselves Tuesday afternoon when his arm became inflamed while he was in the banking house of August Belmont and Co., of which he was the head.

He is survived by his widow, who was Eleanor Robson, celebrated stage star, before her marriage, and two sons, Morgan and Raymond, by his first wife, who was Elizabeth Harlan Morgan, who died in 1892. Mrs. Belmont, Morgan and the latter's wife were at his bedside when Mr. Belmont died.

Mr. Belmont won fame in the realms of both sport and finance. It was he who financed the first New York subway lines and he was the prime mover in the construction of the Cape Cod canal.

It was in the field of horse racing, however, that Mr. Belmont won the widest reputation. At his nursery stud near Lexington, Ky., he bred hundreds of thoroughbreds, among them Man o' War, Tracey and Rock Saddle.

Mr. Belmont was one of four sons of August Belmont and Caroline E. Dell Perry, a daughter of Commodore Matthew Calbraith Perry. The elder Belmont came to America in 1837. He was a Hebrew by birth, his family name being Schonberg, but on marrying Miss Perry embraced her religion and became an Episcopalian.

Photograph Found on Missing Man's Desk Gives Police Clue

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—Police were searching for a woman who may be able to give information as to the whereabouts of Clarence P. Green, manager of the Coffield Appliance Co., who is charged with obtaining money under false pretenses and forgery.

A check of the company's books shows $158,500 missing.

Late Wednesday Eugene Wingert, district attorney, forced Green's desk and found a note addressed, "To Whom It May Concern," "There is no one but me to blame. I assume the responsibility for my acts."

The note was signed by Green. At the time the note was found, a snapshot taken at the Dells on the Wisconsin river was found. The picture shows Green in company with a woman. The police now are searching for her.

English Papers Support Churchill's Suggestion to Debtor Nations

WOULD RELIEVE TAXPAYERS
If France Pays America, She Should Do the Same for Britain, Attitude

By Associated Press
London—Winston Spencer Churchill's declaration in his first speech in the house of commons as chancellor of the exchequer, that the government considers it essential that payments made by Great Britain's debtors in Europe to the United States should be accompanied simultaneously by proportionate payments to this country, pleases the press and populace immensely, without regard to party or size of pocketbook.

Every morning newspaper displayed the account of his speech more prominently than anything else in the day's news, relegating to second place one of the worst fogs in years which has kept London dark and dismal for more than 28 hours and which Thursday morning was still as dense as ever.

The chancellor did not mention any debtor nation by name, but almost every newspaper speaks of France whose emissaries have been discussing the debt subject in Washington. The press with significant solidity, takes the position that if France begins paying her debt to America, it is only fair that she should at the same time start settling with Great Britain.

The British position in the popular mind may be summarized as follows: Great Britain borrowed roughly 1,000,000,000 pounds sterling and lent twice as much to her ally. She is paying her own debt, but is receiving nothing from her ally. If she can collect from her ally and Germany together enough to meet the American demands upon the public purse, she will be satisfied and will release her debtors of the remainder of their obligations to her.

Reported Dead

It is held here that Great Britain borrowed not for herself, but because her allies were borrowing from her.

"It is obvious," says the Morning Post, "that we cannot bear all the sacrifice despite the fact that we have glory which we reap for our generosity. At the same time, as Mr. Churchill more than hinted, this country does not wish to pursue any niggardly policy toward France. It seems then that the next step lies with the United States." President Coolidge and congressional leaders are expected to take the lead in choosing between a policy which, from the party point of view, may be easy, and for the time being profitable and one which though causing temporary embarrassment, will in the end rebound to the credit of the United States and make for settlement of the debt.

The Daily News states the whole question is one of equity from every point in view of reason, and continues "France is to come to some arrangement with America as to discharging her debt. This country is entitled to some share of the proceeds. Great Britain's position is very simple and very definitely just."

Washington, D. C.—The treasury has announced the retirement of Winston Churchill, chancellor of the British exchequer, on allied debts "was obvious and logical" and has no intention of making any further comment.

This official expression was made Thursday after a conference between Secretary Mellon, under Secretary Winston and Assistant Secretary Wadsworth at the treasury.

Newspaper Victories In Publicity Trials End Secrecy Efforts

Court Decisions Throw Burden of Fight Back Into Congress for Decision, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1924 by The Post-Pub. Co.
Decision against the department of justice and in favor of the Kansas City Journal-Post and New York Herald-Tribune, two newspapers which were selected for the test cases because they published income tax payments, means the probable collapse of the whole effort to secure secrecy by court decision and transfers the problem back to congress.

For several days leaders in the house and senate have been dodging the issue of publicity on tax payments by saying they preferred to await the outcome of the cases pending in the courts. Enough has been indicated by the courts to show that the latter will not pull the government's chestnuts out of the fire.

Once upon a time a constitutional amendment was adopted which forbade congress to make any law bridging the freedom of the press. Although there have been numerous cases brought to test the validity of laws passed which seemed to inhibit the press, the Supreme Court of the United States usually has taken the position that about the only things that can be prohibited from publication are those which interfere with the public welfare, such as the printing of obscene literature and claims calculated to damage the government, though the latter as a rule enhance various activities. Almost never has there been any thought that newspapers printing the facts taken from government documents were violating any possible law. It has been as simple as that.

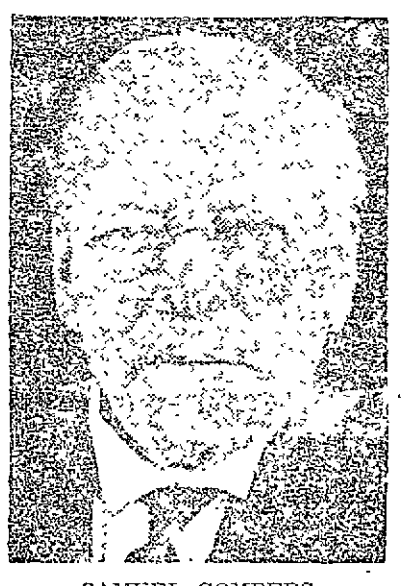

Their duty not only in disclosing the details of a law but in criticizing its methods of operation.

LABEL ONLY LIMITATION
The only limitation on the press is that—namely the printing of even a true statement which may be damaging to an individual. But in recent years the newspapers have published records taken from congressional proceedings which unquestionably damaged individuals, but no prosecutions ever have been undertaken by the government to redress wrongs of that sort.

In congress it would appear that the court procedure was determined upon as a means of delaying action until it can be determined whether the country was income tax payers revealed or suppressed. Sentiment for good and against is not confined to party lines. The treasury department considers the provision obnoxious and wants it repealed. President Coolidge will sign a repeal measure if put up to him.

Why then are the leaders waiting on a court opinion? They hope that the whole question of the relationship between the press and the government will be settled once and for all. If the courts take the position that congress cannot forbid publication in a newspaper of information made available by government bureaus, will the courts also say that the newspapers cannot publish other parts of data private or public property? If the supreme court decides ultimately that income tax information must be kept secret, congress will be saved a controversy and prolonged debate. The general belief of lawyers who have studied the precedents is that the publication of income tax returns will not be held illegal and that congress will have to take other steps to guard the taxpayer's return, even to the point of determining what can be done with the information after it is given in confidence to congressional committees. For the senate has often marked a document "confidential" especially a treaty, but the newspapers have published the same without being prosecuted for so doing.

GOMPERS, HEAD OF U. S. LABOR, DIES, MEXICAN REPORT

El Paso Paper Declares Labor Federation Leader Succumbs to Illness

El Paso, Tex.—Samuel Gompers, American Federation of Labor president, died Thursday morning near San Luis Potosi, according to a dispatch to El Paso from a Spanish language daily published in El Paso Thursday.

The dispatch stated that the veteran labor chief had succumbed to illness resulting from a severe cold and his overworked condition.

The message to the paper came from Mexico City and was not confirmed from any official source.

Officials here questioned the reliability of the information contained in the message.

Mexico—Samuel Gompers, the aged American labor leader, left Wednesday night for Laredo, accompanied by the entire American delegation to an American labor congress, which has just concluded its sessions here.

Mr. Gompers who is approaching his seventy-fifth year was in a state of such weakness the result of illness of the last few days that he was carried from his hotel on a stretcher.

While he has been suffering only from a cold his condition was aggravated by the effect of Mexico City's high altitude on his heart, and the doctors advised him to expediate his departure.

Mr. Gompers and his colleagues were given a bon voyage at the station by Labor Minister Alvarez and other officials of the Mexican government.

The illness of the American labor chief gave rise to reports after his departure that he was dead but these were set at rest by a reassuring message shortly after midnight from the station master at San Nicolas.

THREATEN PRIEST'S LIFE IN WEEHAWKEN POLICE LIQUOR PLOT

Jersey City, N. J.—How the Weehawken police could have reported hourly from their beats and at the same time have escorted illicit trucks from the Weehawken waterfront is the question the prosecutors investigating the Weehawken liquor conspiracy hope to answer after scrutinizing police books of the department seized early Thursday.

What report was made by the Weehawken police of alleged seizures last Thursday of a truckload of the liquor is another discovery the investigators hope to make.

Assistant Prosecutor McMahon said He asserted that federal agents had reported the seizure to him.

The Rev. George F. Bennett, pastor of the St. Lawrence Roman Catholic church, has received anonymous letters warning him that he will not be able to say mass on Christmas day. It was learned Wednesday Father Bennett furnished part of the evidence leading to the indictment of two police officials, a Jersey City insurance broker and nine Weehawken policemen on charges of conspiracy.

LEGION OFFICERS URGE VETS TO ASK FOR THEIR BONUS

Last Day of 1925 Is Last Day
on Which Application
Can Be Made

A little more than a year remains in which an ex-soldier or his beneficiary may make application for the adjusted compensation which is given to them in the form of insurance. After Dec. 31, 1925, it will be impossible to secure compensation.

T. H. Morrissey, commander of the Onea Johnson post of the American Legion, said between 10 and 15 per cent of them entitled to compensation have not yet applied. These men have various excuses for not applying, the most common of which is that "they didn't have time."

It is quite important, said Mr. Morrissey, that the application be made at once, for if a man died without having applied for his compensation his survivors would only get a portion of what they would have received had he filed application himself.

If a man dies after applying for compensation his survivors receive two and a half times the $1 a day for each day spent in service in this country and $1.25 a day for each day spent on foreign soil. From the final amount the $50 bonus each man received at the end of the war is to be subtracted.

If he dies before he has made application, his survivors or beneficiary may apply for insurance but they would only receive $1 a day for domestic service and $1.25 for foreign service, minus the $50 bonus.

Beneficiaries of deceased ex-servicemen are entitled to compensation and may make application for it to A. C. Bosser, service officer, of the local post. They will not, however, receive the full amount.

Men are constantly being urged to file application for compensation, but it is physically impossible to talk to each man personally, Mr. Morrissey said. The excuse of lack of time is a poor one, according to Mr. Morrissey, for the benefit derived from the bonus fully compensates a man for the time spent in filing application.

STUDENTS AND FACULTY TALK COLLEGE PROBLEMS

What does Lawrence need? An attempt by the faculty to get the students' viewpoint, and an effort on the part of students to cooperate with the faculty for the greater good of Lawrence, has resulted in an Open Forum discussion every Thursday night. "A place where any barrier between the students and faculty can be set aside in an effort to get at the heart of things," is the way one of the faculty members formulated the purpose of the plan.

At the first two meetings plans were discussed for the coming year and topics suggestive for future meetings. Last Thursday night Prof. A. A. Trever led the meeting on "What is Genuine Religion," the first definite topic discussed by the group. The meetings are a part of a program originated by Dr. John R. Denves to apply practical Christianity to Lawrence problems.

APPLETON POST WAS OUTGROWN OF MOTOR

More information concerning the history of the Appleton Motor, one of the city's earliest newspapers, is given out by Col. H. E. Pomeroy, whose father was an early day publisher here.

Col. Pomeroy read the article appearing recently in the Post-Crescent concerning the Motor. He declares that while the Motor may have been published for a time by Ryan and Ross it was founded by Buchanan Bros and later published by Col. Pomeroy's father, Henry Pomeroy.

The paper was conducted as the Motor until 1885, when it became the Appleton Post. The Post was issued for the first time Sept. 14, 1886 and Col. Pomeroy has copies of the earliest papers.

TAXATION AND INDUSTRY

It is becoming more and more apparent that taxation is going to bear an important relation to the policies of capital, and to the industrial development of cities and states. There is no reason why investments should be made or retained in a state which deliberately discriminates against industry when it can operate in another state which is much more reasonable in its tax policy and where the tax burden is not a heavy handicap in meeting competition and the making of profits. Some states are going so far as to repeal objectionable tax legislation and to adopt constitutional amendments against income and inheritance taxes, in the evident hope of attracting capital, industry and population. Other states, where taxation has been kept at a minimum or where income taxes have not been adopted, not as a concession to capital or industry, but as a reflection of public opinion on the subject of taxation, are in an enviable position to obtain manufacturing.

Indiana is one of these states so favored. Some of its cities are engaged in persistent and active propaganda to take industry out of Wisconsin. South Bend is one, and it makes a formidable appeal.
It is in communication with some of the largest industries in Wisconsin and offers them substantial inducements. It emphasizes its splendid location from an industrial and distributing standpoint, and equally important, the lightness of local and state taxation. It shows some of the companies with which it is flirting that they can save hundreds of thousands of dollars annually in their overhead by moving to Indiana.

An effort is going to be made in the next legislature to carry out the scheme of the super-progressives to shift the burden of taxation in this state more largely to industry and to successful enterprise. If this step is carried out Wisconsin will unquestionably suffer. Capital and industry are not going to be pilloried any further in this state. They will get out and go somewhere else where their usefulness and worth are appreciated. This is not idle talk. It is fact and every politician in Wisconsin knows it is fact. We have already suffered heavily in our retarded industrial development by our tax policies, and we are going to suffer more in the future unless they are modified. Wisconsin, great as it is as an agricultural and dairy state, would cut a sorry figure in competition with other states if it had no manufacture.

At the last election two states voted against the adoption of an income tax and another voted to discontinue it. It is said there are now only fifteen states in the country where there is a state income tax, and of all the industrial states in the central west, Wisconsin's rate is the highest. We do not wish to be understood as opposing a state income tax, equitably drafted and fairly administered. On the contrary, we think a reasonable income tax is a legitimate use of the taxing power of the state, and we believe industry and capital in Wisconsin are of the same opinion. What they object to is making the load excessive and applying it in such a manner as to place them at an undue disadvantage in meeting competition from other states and in reducing their earnings way below what they would be in other states.

THE BUS IN COMMUNITY
TRANSPORTATION

Ever since the motor bus commenced to meet with public favor, we have believed that instead of being a menace to street railways, it offered possibilities for their development, and could be employed to solve some of their most difficult problems. Some traction companies were quick to see the opportunities afforded by the motor busses for their own advancement, and instead of permitting to grow into competitors, added them to their system of transportation. In quite a number of cities busses are now operating as a part of the street railway system. They have proved to be an excellent adjunct to the street car, and have enabled the companies to extend their service into districts that could not otherwise be profitably served. The motor bus so operated is a good feeder for the traction lines and is better than the independent bus for the reason that transfers are given and all sections of the city can be reached, and on a single fare.

This absorption of bus transportation by traction companies was necessarily an experiment. There were unknown factors that had to be worked out by experience, such as depreciation, cost of operation, type and quality of vehicles best adapted to the purposes, and other factors that entered into the profitability of the undertaking. On the whole, we think results have been satisfactory and that today traction companies generally are approving the installation of auxiliary bus service. Of course, in determining whether bus operation is profitable, there is the contingent question, which, however, is quite direct in its effects, of how much is saved to the street railway company of fares that otherwise would go to competing bus lines.

So far as the public is concerned, we believe it would prefer to see busses operated by traction companies than by individuals. It could expect from the former better service, better equipment and more responsible operation. It would be better for the community to have this business concentrated in one organization and in the end the cost of service will be cheaper to the patrons.

AMERICAN FINANCE IN FANCE

In connection with the French loan of $100,000,000 in the United States it is significant that the French government
"adopted the suggestions of the house of Morgan to balance the budget," and "adopted the taxation scheme recommended by American bankers." The lender is in position to fix the terms which makes his security doubly sure.

Even the government must maintain its credit and manage its finances prudently.
The public budget must balance; if it does not, the government's bonds, notes and money shrink in value. The government's income must be adequate to take care of obligations according to agreement.

America will lend millions of dollars in different parts of the world both in investment and speculations. This is the greatest creditor nation of all time. We are extravagant. We spend money lavishly.
Yet there is apparently no limit to the capital which seeks investment abroad. Our capital should influence governments and nations.

TODAY'S POEM

By HAL COCHRAN

A DEBT.

TELL me, where is the man: pick him out, if you can, who has never had worries o'er debt.
Every grown person knows, it's the things that he owes that are causing him often to fret.
You may lean on a friend who is willing to lend when you tell him your own funds are slack. It is easy to borrow, but only brings sorrow. You know that you'll go to pay back.

If you only could wave, then you never would have that you constantly run shy of dough. But there's never an end to real places to spend. It's so easy to let money go.

I could argue I'd death and be wastin' my breath, for the borrowing can't be paid to stay. Since the world first began, it's been practiced by man and beast and up and at it today.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician And Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and stamped; self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

SURE, VIOLET.

Dear Dr. Brady:
My dear, dear man, for the love Mike please tell me what in heaven's name can be done for a blushing fool like me? For instance, a very sweet friend of mine introduced me to her husband and I turned as red as one of those delicious red apples that are in season right now.

In the first place, what causes a blush? I can't understand what makes the blood rush to my face.
There was a time when I was very bashful, but I believe that I have overcome that.
I refuse invitations to go out for a good time, because that fear of blushing comes over me. I tell you I am in misery, really tortured all the time. No one, I imagine, will ever know how much I suffer.
Can't you suggest some way for me to overcome this foolishness, or else give me a darn good laughing out? Doctors know everything, I think.

I am eighteen years old, and I don't want to behave like a little kid all my life.
Probably you think that every girl ought to blush a reasonable amount, but I blush all the time and often when I am alone I cry and cry about it.

Yours truly,

Violet.
Please don't dear me so, Violet. My wife might have the matter brought to her attention. Of course there is slight danger of that in ordinary cases, for she never reads this column—good guess, no—but every little while some member of her sex gives her an awful and while I am a learned and experienced explainer, nothing bores me so much as trying to explain what I have said and why.

Charles Darwin, who ran against W. J. Bryan—or maybe it was W. J. who ran against Darwin—almost but not quite explained blushing. There is a whole chapter about blushing in his "Expressions of the Emotions of Man and Animals," a book which may be found in every good library. Monkeys do not blush, though they redden with anger.
Idiot rarely blush. Women blush more than men.
Nice girls more than hold ones. Blushing is only neck deep in most cases, rarely extending down to the upper third of the chest. Negroes blush, but not noticeably except where there happens to be a white scar or where the individual has a lightly pigmented skin.

More or less confusion of mind accompanies blushing, and in some cases there is an associated increased beating of the heart and disturbed breathing.

Sensitiveness about one's personal appearance is the cause of most blushing, not sensitiveness about normal conduct. But unfortunately moral conduct is sometimes concerned, say a breach of etiquette or the thought that one has committed some such error.

Perhaps an important factor in the development of the habit of blushing is the unwise and unkind criticism of trifling faults of appearance or conduct by parents or other members of the family, for this often leads the naturally shy young persons into the habit of thinking constantly about themselves and their deficiencies.

Blushing is never evidence of guilt. More often the guilty is incapable of blushing.

The inferiority complex is responsible for much blushing. The convicted individual seldom blushes.
The shy young person must fight a moral battle to overcome the temptation to dodge things. A little pluck and perseverance will usually bring victory.
A degree of self confidence sufficient to insure mental comfort and ease in ordinary situations.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Urbanity.

Some time ago I tried to get skim milk but was unable to obtain any. Now I am anxious to follow the reduction regime you gave me, but I can't find skim milk anywhere. Kindly tell me where I may obtain it? (O. C. E.)

Answer.—Take a quantity of ordinary milkmen's milk, and let it stand unmolested until the cream, if any, rises. Then carefully remove the cream, and the pale, insipid fluid substance which remains is what the bucolics call skim milk.

Farmer Has
Voting Edge
Over Urbans

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—The rural population of the country, more particularly the farmers, may complain that they are oppressed economically by the cities and large industrial centers, but in many states they have a startling political advantage over the urban folks. They are buttressed in this advantage by constitutional provisions and laws that are admittedly unjust and antiquated, but that it has never been possible to change.

Thanks to apportionment, and bases of representation that are altogether one-sided, many state legislatures are controlled by minority fractions of the populations and voting strengths of those states. It is a case of the tail wagging the dog, and of the dog's being unable to catch his tail, not matter how hard he chases it.

CAN'T CHANGE IT

In these states representation in the legislative body was fixed arbitrarily without consideration for the possible subsequent growth of the cities and towns, and the rural population has never been willing to surrender this advantage. A hundred years or so ago it was said that England had a borough, Old Sarum, that did not have a house nor a single inhabitant and yet was represented in parliament by two members. There's nothing to parallel that in the United States, but there are situations that invite comparison.

Attention was called to this matter by the spectacular unbalancing in the Rhode Island legislature. This state, with a population slightly in excess of 600,000, is overwhelmingly urban in character. It has only 4,053 farms and the rural population is but 2.5 per cent of the total, and yet the farming communities virtually control the state.

In New Jersey the state constitution decrees that each county shall have one and only one state senator, and apparently that decree is to stand for all time, for the small counties have defeated all efforts to amend the organic law. There are 21 counties, and of these 9 have 84.5 per cent of the state's total population but are accorded a representation of less than 13 per cent in the state senate. Ten counties, Essex and Hudson, have approximately 40 per cent of the state's population, but they have less than 10 per cent of the senate. These counties with 652,089 and 629,154 residents, respectively, are balanced by Cape May and Sussex with 10,460 and 24,305, respectively.

BIBAL NOTE RULES

As an illustration of what the rural element will do it may be mentioned that last year it forced through a bill prohibiting daylight saving time in Pennsylvania.

Out in Illinois more than half of the population is in Chicago and Cook-co., but that county has only 19 state senators while the rest of the state has 22, and 57 state representatives divided against 97 for the rest of the state.
This figures 87 per cent in voting strength, while the population exceeds 50 per cent. The Illinois constitution provides for a reapportionment every ten years, but there has been none for 24 years and it is said to be virtually impossible to elect a ticket pledged to a new deal in representation.

It is claimed that the prohibition amendment to the federal constitution was ratified in Illinois as a result of rural domination, although the wets won four to one in a state referendum two years ago.

Miss Pearson Tells Oshkosh About Club Here

Miss Lucy Helen Pearson, general director of Appleton Women's club, gave a talk before the Business Woman's club of Oshkosh, on Tuesday noon, in which she discussed the work undertaken by the Appleton club, and its ideals for the future.

Miss Pearson stressed that there are two kinds of societies in any community. One is the purely social group, defined in action and limited in privilege, and the others is a civic body with a wide field of action. Every group must decide to which classification it will belong, since no group can be both a social and a civic body at the same time, she said.

Miss Pearson said Appleton Women's club has a membership of the present time of nearly 1,000, and has a wide scope of activities. Supervised recreation for women, employment problems for women, and room registering matters are taken up by the club. Various enterprises that are ordinarily civic undertakings often have headquarters in Appleton Women's club, she told the Oshkosh women.

CLUB MEETINGS

An old-fashioned German Christmas with a "family tree," German cookies, featured the meeting of the college German club Tuesday evening. The members sang "O Tannen Baum" around the tree, and each received a gift. The scripture story of Christ's nativity was read from the German Bible. Mrs. William Crow sang several German Christmas songs.

Mrs. Leda B. Clark entertained the West End reading club Wednesday afternoon at her home at 327 Cherry-st. Mrs. A. G. Mealing was in charge of the program and read several vivid short stories from O'Brien. No further meetings will be held until after Christmas.

The Christmas luncheon of the Over the Teacups club will be held at 1 o'clock Friday noon at the home of Mrs. Charles Marston, 650 Park-ave. Instead of the regular program of reading, a Christmas program will take place and cards will furnish entertainment during the afternoon.

Mrs. Arthur Jones 437 Commercial-st. entertained the Wednesday Bridge club Wednesday evening at her home. Prizes at cards were won by Mrs. Fred Helmritz, Mrs. W. MacFarlane, and Mrs. Robert Ebbesen.

The Rainbow club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Earl Potter, 555 Brewster-st. The Christmas party of the club will be held at the next meeting, on Dec. 23.

Big Audience Enthuses Over Clavilux Program

Not quite understanding, but thoroughly sympathetic with the ambition of the inventor, a large audience saw the first light recital exhibited in Appleton Wednesday night in Lawrence Memorial chapel. Thomas Wilfred, the Danish inventor, was brought here by Appleton Women's club.

The curiosity of the audience was aroused from the moment of entrance to the chapel until the final number. The small steel box, which looked so much like four cash registers set side by side, was placed in the middle of the stage, facing a large white screen. Carl J. Waterman, dean of Lawrence Conservatory of Music, introduced Mr. Wilfred, who began his recital with a description of his invention. He explained that the art of light was new, people were skeptical, afraid to accept something they weren't sure about. His own enthusiasm was so contagious that the audience was ready and eager to be shown.

Like and unlike everything seen in the description given clavilux and it fits perfectly. From the first moment when the shapes and figures, multi-colored, flitted across the white screen, until the last glories of vivid reds and green faded into blackness the audience was silent, then burst into loud applause.

The art of light is so new and so little known that few who saw it appreciated it to the full extent. Mr. Wilfred lectures, which follow every three numbers, were most interesting and helped to hold interest. Mr. Wilfred believes that in years to come each home will have its clavilux as it now has a radio or phonograph; that children will take clavilux lesson as the have taken lessons on musical instruments. He explained light as an actor, telling how it might be used as the setting for plays. He said in the future we will go to a hall to see clavilux as we now go to hear a concert.

The number that brought the greatest applause was the one in which an ocean was portrayed. During this number Mr. Wilfred explained each move he made, making it doubly interesting. It was easier to feel rhythm, depth and beauty when shadows that were like something we had seen before were flashed upon the screen. So the picture of the ocean painted first in delicate colors, then growing more gorgeous as deep-colored sunsets faded over the waters, came to life. Wilfred built rocks at the side of his dream ocean, he made waves ripple and white-caps break. Two or three times during this exhibition the audience burst in applause, according a sincere tribute to this trail blazer in a new field.

Wilfred declared that in the future one may see his favorite comedian through the clavilux, and proceeded to amuse his audience with a number called "Grottesque."

Just as musical compositions have their motifs, so the clavilux compositions had some familiar shapes repeated again and again. This was particularly noticeable in the first number and in the projected setting for a fantastic play. This, too, seemed most prophetic that clavilux will come to mean as much as the more established art.

MARTIN SPEAKS TONIGHT AT LION'S DINNER-DANCE
Attorney Joseph Martin of Green Bay, will be the speaker at the dinner-dance of Appleton Lions club at 8:15 Thursday evening in Elk hall. Talk Plans For Class In Winter Sports

Plans for a class for winter sports were discussed at a meeting of the Sports council of the recreation department of Appleton Women's club Wednesday night in the clubhouse, but no definite steps were taken. The Sports council is the representative body of the clubs and classes of the department.

The council also talked over the possibilities of a two-day institute to discuss professions for women.

A report by Mr. C. Willard Cross, general chairman for the December Festival, showed that the department cleared $251. The festival, Mrs. Cross said, was not only a success financially, but was noteworthy because it was the united effort of so many groups.

Plans for the Christmas party, to which all members of the department are invited were presented by Miss Doris Ewell, representing the social committee. The party is to be Monday night in the Playhouse.

The tagday, which the recreation department was to sponsor, for the club proper, had been called off and nothing was done about holding it later.

A guest of the council was Miss Ruth VanKirk, a returned missionary who has spent much time in China. Miss VanKirk is to return to China where she will supervise recreation work in a girls' school. The Clover Leaf scout troop, led by Miss Dorothy Zuffelt, served supper.

Every Child Has Instinct Of Jealousy

(From the Designer.)

Probably the commonest human failing is jealousy. Everyone has some of it, and everyone hates it in himself and other people. The rarest person in the world and the one whom everyone likes is the person who is most free from it. There are plenty of people to whom we can tell our troubles. But if you will stop to think, there are very few (except our mothers) to whom we can without self-consciousness tell our achievements and our good fortunes.

You are wise if you brag only to the people who are not your competitors in your own line, if you want genuine congratulations. Not everyone is so transparent as the great tenor who had a tremendous popularity with the masses, contraltos and sopranos who sang with him. He was unfailingly kind to them all. Other tenors, however, told a different story. Most of us have the same emotions as he, carefully as we have learned to cover them up.

It is not so strange that children show a perfectly frank and unashamed jealousy and that as they grow older and cleverer you can still see the green-eyed motive for many of their otherwise inexplicable naughtiness. Jealousy, after all, is an offshoot, a by-product of that inevitable and useful instinct to keep the personality strong and alive and dominant. Every child of spirit will give you a merry chase to trail his jealousy into a trait possible to live with.

They say that the things you mind the most in yourself are the things you most viciously attack in your children. If that is true, all parents have a difficult task to turn this particular vice into a virtue. I suppose you could analyze all ambition into various forms of jealousy. It is a difficult problem, but once recognized, like others, it is less hard to meet. One curious thing is that when by questioning you have helped the child to find the underlying meanness, he is relieved and acts almost gratefully to you.

MENASHA LOCK WALLS RAISED TWO FEET

Crew of Men Making Improvements at Menasha Dam and Locks

Menasha—The walls of the Menasha lock have been raised two feet and the coping timbers are now being put in by a crew of carpenters. The top timbers of the gates which are badly decayed are about to be replaced and made two feet higher to correspond with the walls.

The work of replacing the wooden foundation under the four gates of the Menasha dam with concrete, a portion of which was damaged by water getting under it, is progressing favorably. The dredge Omro is stationed just above the dam and is furnishing steam for laying the concrete. It will require the greater part of the winter to complete the work.

NEIGHBORS HINTED WOMAN WAS INSANE; SHE WANTS $5,000

Mrs. Vanda Barth Charges Reputation Was Damaged and Health Injured

Whether a woman's "good name, reputation, standing and credit" were damaged by a petition of her neighbors asking for an examination of her mental condition is a question to be decided by a jury in municipal court that is trying the case of Mrs. Vanda Barth against Charles H. Craven, J. M. Lantz and John Jarchow, all of Cicero.

Mrs. Barth alleges that her reputation and credit were maliciously damaged to the extent of $5,000 and demands judgment for that amount. She believes that she is entitled to the amount for the reason that two physicians who examined her in county court last summer adjudged her sane.

The trouble started from certain actions of Mrs. Barth which her neighbors regarded as abnormal and as a result they filed a petition in county court asking that she be examined as to her sanity. The result of the medical examination led to the dismissal of the petition. Now Mrs. Barth complains that she was in poor health at the time and that the moral degradation she suffered from the insanity proceedings has aggravated the condition of her health.

WILLING WORKER GETS AHEAD FIRST

Geiger Tells Vocational School Boys to Do Everything They Are Asked to Do

Workmen who do more than just their regular duties are the ones who get ahead in their work according to John Geiger, instructor in printing at Appleton vocational school, who spoke to the students of the school during the assembly period Thursday afternoon. He spoke on How to Get Ahead in a Plant.

By doing more than his regular duties the employee shows his willingness to do anything that is asked of him by his superior, Mr. Geiger said. This causes the boss to give him a chance to "show the goods" and if he continues to do "just a little bit more" he will be promoted rapidly.

Many workers feel that they are hired and paid to do one certain task and that is all they will do. These men are passed up when promotion is in sight and they remain in the same rut all their lives. The man that is called upon for every task in the plant from driving the truck to important machine work has the full confidence of his superiors and will go ahead with great speed. He is the man who is willing to do the extra work and accepts the "dirty jobs" when others refuse in order to help his firm, Mr. Geiger said.

Other class averages for the third quarter were: Juniors 93.4 percent, sophomores 91.2 percent, freshmen 77.9 percent.

ITCHING ECZEMA DRIED RIGHT UP WITH SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentha Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Rowles Mentha Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.

Quick Way To Break Heavy Cough

Many have been astonished how quickly a bad cough disappears when treated with a new combination treatment that is simple but wonderfully effective.

Here is the method, which is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take one teaspoonful and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing, without mixing with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and heals soreness and inflammation, but also loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the cough. When the cause is removed, the severest cough quickly disappears.

This treatment is for coughs, chest colds, tickling, sore throat, hoarseness, bronchitis, spasmodic croup, etc. Recommended for children as well as grown folks—no narcotics or opiates, economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. At all good druggists ask for

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Person Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every Druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenhu, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenhu has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen of 26 Forbes st. Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of Allenhu, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenhu decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance.

Adapted from a novel by Carolyn Wells, "The Mark of Cain," relates a tense murder mystery, in which, with diabolical cunning, one man kills another, proves an apparent alibi for himself and throws the suspicion upon his rival in love.

The unravelling of the mystery, which includes proving the innocence of the hero and the guilt of the villain, is done after a clever fashion to the tune of rattling action and let the fact that there is a good romance woven throughout not be overlooked.

Needless to say, such a plot, and especially when directed by George Fitzmaurice and enacted by a cast that includes, in addition to Mr. Castle, Antonio Moreno, John Sumpster, J. H. Gilmore and Olive Stokes, could present an audience pleasing and interesting.

"LOVE AND GLORY" IS UNIVERSAL'S LATEST SUPER PRODUCTION

"Love and Glory," the Rupert Julian-Universal-Jewel production starting today at the Elite theatre, presents a distinct novelty in the way of screen entertainment in that the characters live through a fifty year lapse of time.

The three featured characters, portrayed by Charles Roche, Wallace MacDonald and Midge Bellamy, are introduced in the story as young persons in a French village. In the closing scenes of the film they appear in the make-up of persons seventy years of age. So real is the transfiguration that it is said to be difficult to believe that the characters are portrayed by the same players. It is a triumph for the actors as well as for the director.

Pictorially the production is one of the most beautiful of the year. Gilbert Warren, credited on the film with the photography, has taken many a bow for his skillful camera work.

LLOYD HAMILTON IN NEW COMEDY

Lloyd Hamilton will be seen in his latest two-reel Educational Hamilton comedy, "Crushed," at the Elite Theatre today, supported by a cast in which no doubt he will be such anywhere this policy as Lloyd Hamilton, his new in force.

Baby's Health

CHILDREN'S BUREAU, U. S. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

BOTTLE FEEDING
No general instructions can be given about the preparation of a milk mixture for your baby. Each baby needs a combination suited to his digestion.

The mixture upon which some other baby is thriving may be too strong or too weak for your baby.
Let the doctor tell you how to mix the food.

If it is necessary to use cream in the mixture—do not buy cream—it is likely to be stale, but get it by pouring off a half pint of the top of a bottle of milk (quart of milk) after cleansing the lip of the bottle.

Do not be guilty of constantly changing the food of the baby, as some mothers are apt to do through the "good" advice of their neighbors. Follow the instructions of your doctor—always.

Do not heat a bottle when you go to bed and keep it in bed until nursing time, because you do not want to go to the icebox for it and heat it when the baby needs it. This is a certain way to make the baby sick.

RECIPES
Barley Water—This is often used instead of water to dilute the milk and tends to make the curds of the milk more digestible. One heaping tablespoon of barley flour and a pinch of salt are mixed with a little water into a thin paste and added to one quart of boiling water. Stir well and boil for 20 minutes. Add enough water to make one quart. Pearl barley requires more cooking. It should be boiled for at least three hours and must be strained before using. Make fresh daily.

Oatmeal Water—This is used in the same way as barley water, but it has a laxative effect. Stir two tablespoons of oatmeal and a pinch of salt in a quart of boiling water and let it simmer for three hours. Replace the water that evaporates, so there will be a quart when done. Strain. Make fresh daily.

Egg Water—To be used when the baby cannot digest milk. Stir the white of one egg into one pint of boiling water, add a pinch of salt, shake thoroughly and strain. This should be kept in an ice box or some other cool place.

Beef Juice—Take one boiled beef and cut into small pieces, then press out the blood. This can be diluted with plain boiled water or barley water.

Broths—Take one pound of meat free from fat and cook for three hours in one quart of water. Add water from time to time, so that there will be one quart of broth. Cool, remove fat, strain and add a little salt.

Whey—Warm one pint of milk to blood heat and add one teaspoonful essence of peppin or junket tablet. Let it stand until it jellies; then break up the curds with a fork. Strain through a cloth. What goes through is called whey and is used when babies cannot digest cow's milk.

To The Mothers of Appleton
If any mother with a baby under one year of age has not received a copy of that beautiful and authoritative book, "Baby's Health," call upon the Appleton Post-Crescent, or any members in Appleton of the Baby's Health Association and a copy will be given free.

MENTORS IMPRESSED WITH FONDY SCHOOL

Heilig Says Fountain City Vocational School Is Well Organized

Work in the Fond du Lac vocational school is on a high standard, according to directors of vocational schools in the Fox river valley and lake shore sections who attended the first of a series of conferences in that city recently. The visitors spent the day visiting the classes in the school. The visits were followed by a conference at which the teachers gave short talks on their work. A discussion followed each talk. Formal programs and exchanges of ideas had been the rule at previous meetings of the directors, but the new plan allows for a more informal and free discussion of the problems facing each school. One of the special problems discussed was that of handling the backward and retarded pupil and of the special treatment given him in the various schools.

Appleton vocational school was presented by H. H. Heilig. Other directors present were A. T. Hull, son of Kaukauna, S. E. Crockett of Menasha, Carl Christensen of Neenah, H. G. OILMEN CLAIM NEW MARK IN CONCLAVE

By Associated Press
Ft. Worth, Tex.—The American Petroleum Institute swung into the final day of its fifth annual session here Thursday with what its leaders regard as a record of considerable achievement.

Outstanding, they say, was a decision of the board of directors of the institute to spend $100,000 annually through a public relations committee in order to get to the people reliable information concerning the petroleum business "through regular and systematic publication."

Election of Thomas A. O'Donnell, president of the institute, to its board of directors was taken as an indication that he would not again be a candidate.

Now Is Time To Build New Diagonal Street Southwest, Says Smith

City Planner Urges City to Buy Land at Once for New Street
Parallel to Northwestern
Tracks as Far as Mason-st

Appleton ought to get busy right away on a plan for a diagonal street parallel to the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks from College-ye and Cherry-st to Appleton Junction, declares Leonard S. Smith of Madison, who prepared the city plan here two years ago.

This street was included in the plan as one of the most important methods of solving the traffic problem here.

"I believe the wisdom of this idea can be seen readily if one would give it only slight study," said Mr. Smith. "The reason I advocate its adoption right now is that the land is available and can be bought cheaply. If the city waits until buildings begin to appear along the tracks then it will be an expensive proposition to make the change and the city council will always regret that more foresight was not used."

EASY TO DO

It is the opinion of the city planner that only one piece of this land contains a building that would be in the way of the street. This is the Auto Body Works, Inc. a plant but it would not be difficult to make a change there so as to open a street, he thinks.

Appleton badly needs a short cut to the southwestern part of town, especially because of the heavy traffic to the junction, says Mr. Smith. Prospect and Second-sts. now carry a steady stream of traffic of heavy trucks and they are a speedway for touring cars. This beautiful residence street with Pierce park fronting upon it ought to be a boulevard.

The plan Mr. Smith has in mind would be for the city to buy all the land parallel to the Northwestern tracks on one side of the right-of-way from College-ave and Cherry-st to Mason-st. A wide paved street should be placed there, he says, giving a direct route to the junction.

PUBLIC WANTS IT

Wishes of the public for a street of this kind are plainly evident, for hundreds walk the railroad tracks every day, choosing this short cut to the downtown district. The railway company has found it impossible to stop this practice and a street alongside the tracks would provide a remedy.

Distance saved by trucks and teams going to and from the junction daily also is a big factor, says Mr. Smith. There is a saving of almost half a mile by means of a diagonal

JAPAN'S NATIONAL DEBT IS FIVE BILLIONS OF YEN

By Associated Press
Tokio—Japan's national debt totals 4,498,000,000 yen ($2,249,000,000), according to an announcement by the department of finance. This figure does not include short term indebtedness, such as the temporary exchequer bonds and rice bonds, which, if included would bring the total to more than 5,000,000,000 yen.

street as compared to a route south on Cherry-st to Second-st and thence west to Mason-st.

There would be satisfaction also in the fact that street cars and heavy motor traffic would not be on the same street, and many of the accidents now occurring could be avoided.

CHERRY-ST BRIDGE APPROACH FINISHED

The concrete roadway connecting Second-st with the Cherry-st bridge was completed Monday by the Wausau Iron works, builders of the bridge, but the sidewalks and the extended side curbs for the turn from Second-st to the bridge approach still remain to be laid. It is expected, however, that this work will take only a few more days. Weather conditions have been extremely unfavorable this week, but the materials are being heated to prevent freezing.

and a chemical compound is being used to hasten the setting of the cement. The last work on the bridge will be the attaching of the name plates which have not yet arrived.

COUNTY FORCED TO SLASH $3,000 OFF AID FOR PAVEMENT

Now Somebody Owes Contractors $3,000—Want State to Pay It

Who will assume liability for a debt of approximately $3,000 in connection with the paving of Lemhi, what is a question which will be submitted by the county highway committee to O. C. Rollman, Green Bay, divisional engineer of the state highway commission.

The committee at its first meeting since its organization received a delegation of Appleton city officers including Mayor John J. Goodland, Jr., Engineer R. M. Connelly and others who presented the case. The county board of supervisors had appropriated $12,000 to pay for 18 feet of paving, which is as much as the law allows on state aid projects.

A part of the amount appropriated was county aid money and the rest was county and state aid. Approximately $3,000 is all that the county is permitted to pay for its share of the cost, it is held, whereas $12,000 was originally expected. Assessments of benefits and damages have already been made against the abutting properties for the city's portion of the cost of the pavement, and the question now remains who is to pay the difference of $3,000? Whether it is possible for the state to assume the liability is a question that will be submitted to the divisional engineer.

FATHER'S SLAYER IS FREED BY JURY

Kenosha—"Not guilty" was the verdict reached in 14 minutes Wednesday by the jury which heard the trial of William Marshall, Kenosha youth who shot his father to death in a quarrel at their home here last summer.

The verdict was received with applause by the crowd, most of which was made up of neighbors who have stood behind young Marshall since his arrest. Marshall was the calmest person in the courtroom while the jurors were deliberating. The first ballot showed the jury unanimous for acquittal.

When the decision was announced the youth's mother, who had appeared as a witness for the defense, broke down. Her son was first at her side to comfort her.

The trial began Monday. Marshall had pleaded self defense to the charge of first degree murder, on which he faced the jurors. Instructions given by Judge E. B. Felden were that the jury might acquit or convict on one of two degrees of murder or any of the four degrees of manslaughter.

The elder Marshall died 24 hours after his left leg was blown away by a shotgun charge fired by his son during a quarrel which arose over the younger man's attentions to a young woman. The youth told police he had had one or two drinks of liquor shortly before the shooting, but denied that he was drunk.

Safe Way To Reduce Goitre

Thousands of people suffering this disfiguring, often dangerous growth, who, fearing an operation and having tried various advertised treatments without successful result, believe nothing short of the knife can ever remove their goitre and that they must carry it to the grave. Yet their case may not be hopeless. Schlitz Bros. and other well known drug stores have recently secured the agency for a remarkable home method known as Dr. Hayssen's Goitre Treatment which, according to letters received has shown some truly wonderful results in two weeks time. This simple goitre treatment can be used by anyone in the privacy of the home. The action is perfectly natural and harmless and you can picture for your self the amazing transformation when the disfiguring growth is gradually reduced and finally disappears entirely. Full information regarding Dr. Hayssen's Goitre Treatment may be obtained at Schlitz Bros. and other well-stocked drug stores who have the agency for it, or write for free booklet to the H. H. Sen. Butler Meets G. O. P. Hostility In New Job

BY HARRY B. HUNT
Washington—Republican senators are much upset by the thought that William M. Butler will be among them for the next four years.

What the Republican solons fear is that Butler is going to be very hard to get along with.

Whether or not Butler enters the Senate as President Coolidge's personal representative even more than as a representative of the state of Massachusetts, it is a fact that most of the other senators are sure to think he does. Indeed, those who are in the capital already say so, though somewhat discreetly, for it doesn't pay them to antagonize the administration.

Now, the present Republican party management is entirely a different management from the one which expelled before the Cleveland convention. The old management was thrown out at that time, none too politely. Naturally it didn't like it.

Most of the Republican senators outside the progressives, were identified with the old management. Butler not only is identified with the new one, but, as national committee chairman, actually is head of it.

Butler takes his seat, too, under circumstances which his fellow senators regard with disfavor.

Senator Lodge's term had more than four years still to run when he died. Governor Cox of Massachusetts appointed Butler to fill out the whole of it. He was entitled to make the appointment but the Democrats say he had a right to fill the vacancy only temporarily—until a special election could be held. They intend to try to force one.

The Democrats, however, are not the only ones who are dissatisfied. There are Massachusetts Republicans also who would like a chance against Butler in the primaries. The Republican senators, who would distinctly prefer somebody else, sympathize with them.

An administration always wants various things done that Congress objects to.

If Butler enters the Senate as the administration's representative, it will be his job to make his wishes known to his fellow lawmakers and to do his best to get them acted on favorably.

He knows as well as anybody how the Republican old-timers feel toward him. Inasmuch as he stands small chance of winning their affection, it's suspected he won't try to but will seek to accomplish his purposes with a club.

He'll have the club all right—his national committee chairmanship, his prestige as an exceptionally successful campaign manager, his standing as White House spokesman, his ready access to a president who is notoriously difficult for most people to establish close relations with or understand, even.

Armed with a club, Butler has the reputation of a man who doesn't hesitate to use it.

In short, the indications are he will step at once into a position of leadership.

He won't bear the leader's title but it is foreseen that he may dispute authority with the senator who does, and perhaps do it more or less successfully.

Yet he's a brand-new senator. He didn't become one by election. Even his right to continue being one is questioned. In fact, an upstart, as the dignified old-timers look at it.

The prospect of having to knuckle under him is bitter.

C. OF C. EULOGIZES MEMORY OF PLANTZ

Resolutions of condolence to the family of Dr. Samuel Plantz, late president of Lawrence college, and of tribute to the memory of the educator, have been adopted by the chamber of commerce and a copy has been sent to the family.

Dr. Plantz was a member of the chamber of commerce and while he was not connected with it in an official capacity due to his lack of time, he was an ardent supporter of its undertakings. He was also a frequent adviser on community problems.

Shortly before his death he accepted the chairmanship of the committee on education in the better cities contest of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work and intended to assist in helping Appleton win the prize of $1,000. He had spoken at several of the meetings of the chamber.

The city of Appleton and the chamber owe a debt of gratitude to Dr. Plantz, the resolution reads. He is praised for his unselfish work as a citizen and for his leadership by which Lawrence college was made the leading educational college in Wisconsin.

Canned and bottled goods popping like a rifle fusillade in the heat roused the proprietor, but the blaze had progressed too far for efforts of a volunteer bucket brigade and the Beloit fire department to be of any avail. ANCIENT INTAKE FOR WATERPOWER IS MADE MODERN

Appleton Mfg. and Lbr. Co.
Makes Improvements to Increase Power

Waterpower facilities at the Appleton Manufacturing and Lumber company on Grand Chute island have been thoroughly repaired this fall, and as a result a great saving in water has been accomplished.

The wooden tube through which water is drawn from the West canal has been replaced in concrete. While the old wooden tube was used, a small bridge had to be maintained over it on North Island-st. The concrete work has made this unnecessary and a dirt filling now replaces the bridge.

The tube is four feet in diameter and extends 100 feet from the canal to the mill. The leak in it was increasing gradually and ordinary repairs were unable to stop it. It has been estimated that the loss of water when the leak was the greatest equaled the amount of water used for power. A large portion of the driveway had been washed out.

A concrete reinforcement also has been placed around the waterbox which was of wood and had been in use for 40 or 50 years. It was installed by the company's predecessor, Webster Planning Mill Co. The Appleton Manufacturing and Lumber company can now utilize its full 20 horsepower of water through the water wheels since the leak in the waterbox has been stopped. A concrete wall also was extended from the water box to the end of the mill to protect the tailrace.

The mill operates 18 or 20 machines for the manufacture of all kinds of wood products for paper mills, such as wooden cores, suction covers, beater paddles, skimming sticks, trimmer sticks, left sticks, cooler sticks, fly sticks and plugs for paper rolls. It also manufactures cores for adding machine rolls, rolling pins, wooden handles hubs for toy carts and hundreds of similar products.

25 MOTHERS APPLY TO COUNTY FOR PENSIONS

The county mothers pensions committee, consisting of David Hodgins, Hortonville, Frank R. Appleton, Oneida, and Charles Wendt, Kaukauna, at its regular meeting in the county court acted on petitions of about 25 families. One of the families to receive temporary aid was that of a moonshiner who this week was imprisoned for a month. The mother has a farm to work and has six children, the youngest 2 years and the oldest 17.

WINNEBAGOS HONOR TRIBAL BENEFACTOR

Kilbourn, Wis.—A ceremony unique in Indian history took place in the Wisconsin Dells here when Glen Parsons, manager of a local boat company, was christened a member of the Winnebago Indian tribe and then made a chief of all the Winnebagos. Parsons' title among the Indians is Chief Thunder Bird, the Indian word for which is Zuzumaga.

The honor was given Parsons chiefly because of his interest in the Indian tribes and activities with them. Chief Thunder Bird Parsons was christened by Chief Little Bird, 101 years old, and said to be a direct descendant of Chief Thunder Bird, who was a warrior of the tribe 200 years ago.

ASK FOR MASSMEETING TO INDORSE WORLD COURT

Appleton is asked to hold a mass-meeting in January in line with a national movement to secure this country's endorsement of the world court on the terms in the Harding-Hughes proposals.

The request has come to the chamber of commerce in a letter from the American Peace Award, New York. The letter says that men high in government favor the world court and that over President Calvin Coolidge gives his endorsement. It remains for a strong wave of public sentiment to sway the senate to favor and the task will be accomplished, the letter says.

This request will be referred to the board of directors.

AVOID CONGESTION BY MAILING EARLY

Postmaster Urges Appleton People to Help Relieve Postal Rush

Early Christmas mailing is not as pronounced as much as is desired by the postoffice department and unless residents begin soon to mail gift parcels and greeting, they will be confronted with the usual holiday congestion, according to Postmaster William H. Zuehlke.

The postal department has announced a mailing schedule which should be observed if senders wish gift parcels to arrive in time for Christmas. Gifts, letters and cards addressed to points within one day's travel should be mailed not later than Dec. 20, within two days' travel, not later than Dec. 18, within three days' travel, not later than Dec. 15, for more distant points, not later than Dec. 14. Parcels and cards for local delivery should be mailed not later than Dec. 22.

The early mailing of Christmas cards is just as important as parcels. It was pointed out by Postmaster Zuehlke. Thousands of these cards, separate and in envelopes, are mailed

BUSINESS PLACES ARE RECORDED FOR HOLIDAYS

Appleton firms are decorating their places of business better than ever this year for the Christmas holidays, according to local florists. Large orders of electrically-lighted wreaths and small trees have been sold in the last two weeks. One large firm purchased 50 wreaths. Jerusalem cherries and other plants having bright berries sell best to individuals for the holiday season.

In Appleton each Christmas, consequently, great congestion and delay occur when they are mailed within a day or two of Christmas.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and d-read cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known in the world over for its healing effect on membranes. Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. Decrees Are Arbitrary For Grand Balls

Husbands may have difficulty in following the rules and business firms may despair of controlling the length of their employees' skirts but in one place in the world laws still exist which say what and what not the ladies shall wear. In no less a place as the famous pleasure resort of the season and the fashions of the season and the fashions of the season were not more strictly obeyed.

According to Miss Florence Fisher, of Scarsdale, N. Y., for many years a resident of Cannes and now in charge of a tour de luxe to the Riviera and North Africa, it is the director of the "Chic"—the Napoleon of the profession, as he is called—who issues the law. But it is far more highly revered than if written on the statute books of the republic and much more closely followed.

"The purpose of this custom," says Miss Fisher, "is to secure a harmonious effect at the grand ball, the occasion of the season. In the great, white columned ball room, bordered with the most luxurious of flowers, the soft blend of two tones, reflected from materials of the same texture and sheen is lovely beyond description. It is the last word in elegance as is the ball itself."

ORCHID AND SILVER

"Two years ago the colors were orchid and silver. It was the most beautiful combination of any I have ever seen in all my years at Cannes. The effect was much like the lovely haze of dawn, before the sun has risen in the morning sky.

"While the materials are usually of the most gorgeous this is not always true. When the Casino opened the year following the Armistice only the simplest fabrics were worn. Cotton tulle for the first glittered in the grand ball room which had looked on none but the finest. Gradually the materials increased in elegance until now they are back to their former dazzling beauty."

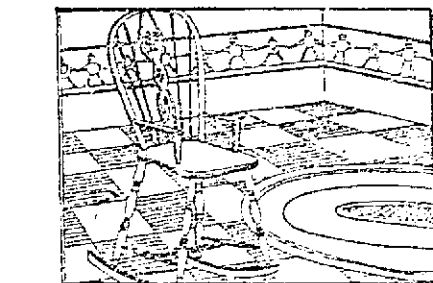

And danger of monotony in costume is avoided. Miss Fisher says, by the variety and artistry of design. The modistes of Cannes cater especially to the guest of the grand ball and knowing far in advance the colors and materials of the season, design their patronesses gowns in the most delightful and bewilderingly varied way. Miss Fisher has already engaged modistes for the party she is taking over for the coming season.

STUNNING COMBINATIONS

"While costumes for the ordinary wear are not prescribed by law," Miss Fisher explains, "there is a certain tendency to wear the color d'azur color, gold, blue and white—gold of the sunlight, blue of sea and sky, white of the gleaming beach and winding roads. One is always correct when garbed in any combination or one of these colors."

No effect does out as to what the men shall wear. Presumably it is the "conventional black." But in the case of the grand ball at Cannes the black is almost without exception enlivened by the brilliant decorations that adorn the lapels of the distinguished guests or by the dazzling uniforms of the maids and waiters of the world that broken the animals and generals and princes who grace this most elegant of occasions.

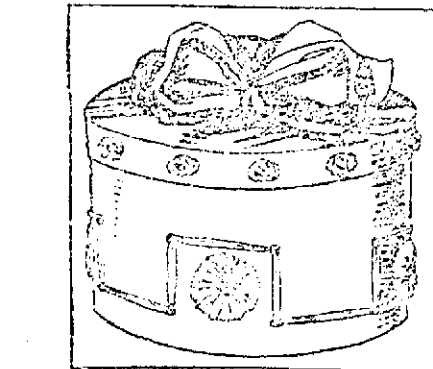

All Children Love Colors On The Walls

Quaint illustrated figures on a light painted wall, and early painted chair lend cheer to the children's playroom.

Christmas Presents

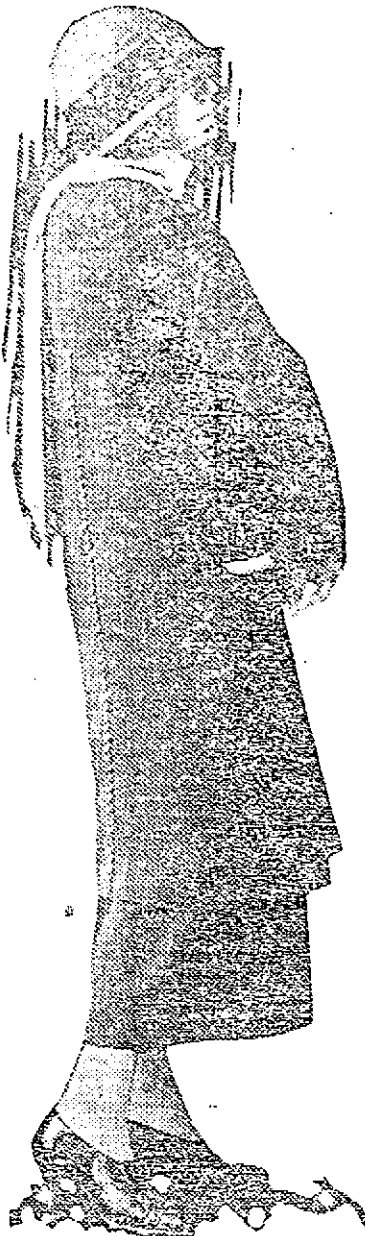

FANCY BAT IRON

An ordinary bat box will serve for the foundation of a fancy bat box to hold one's best iron.

Any design of silk may be used on the sides of the box with heavy gold ribbon adorning the top, decorated with a bouquet of French holly leaves. For less expensive models, attractive wall paper or pattern with a bat to match the predominating color may be used.

Ideal For Fall

Paris recommends this as the ideal costume for fall and early winter. The long coat worn over the straight chemise frock keeping the lines close and slender. The material is black tulle lined with beige crepe de chine and finished at the neck with a scarf of the crepe. A row of buttons up the back and half way up the sleeves are the only trimming on the coat. The frock buttons on one side with a row of buttons from shoulder to hemline, and has a Jenny neckline.

Household Suggestions

WASTED SPACE

Much room is wasted in cupboards and refrigerators by not having small compact food containers for leftovers. Wide topped flaring bowls and plates represent a great waste of space.

CUPFUL OF RICE

A cupful of rice added to Lyonnais potatoes just before taking them from the fire makes them most delicious.

SHINING MAHOGANY

If your mahogany table looks dull, rub it with a rag dipped in vinegar and when dry rub again with a cloth dampened in paraffin.

NEW ENAMEL DISHES

The new enamel dishes that are square in shape and have covers are ideal for holding foods like bacon, butter and meat that should be kept in the refrigerator.

COMBINATION SANDWICH

A combination of cucumber, celery, pineapple and black walnut meats chopped together and mixed with mayonnaise, dressing makes a most delicious sandwich for afternoon tea.

SMALL EGG BATTERS

It is now easy to have small egg batters and cream, anywhere which will fit into a large wax cup. These are most convenient when you are making a small quantity of dressing or butter.

Alice has systematically kept away from me. I have not seen her alone since I arrived. She looks haggard and worn. I think she is frightened to death. She probably sent that letter on impulse. I can see, too, that Karl is not very happy.

What do you think I'd better do, dear? I'm almost sure that if I tell this thing about Alice, Karl will never marry her, and on the other hand, I am almost sure that if Karl marries her, he will be perfectly happy. While Alice is my sister, she has done me a great wrong, and Karl has ever been so kind and sweet to me.

By the way, there's another complication in this tragedy of errors Alice (you see, I keep saying Alice, although the letter was anonymous, for I know no one except Karl who could have written that letter, but Alice did not put "personal" on the outside of the envelope, and Sally Atherton opened it.

I know you don't like Sally. But, dear, in this case she certainly was a brick. When Jack handed the letter to me, I found a notation on the bottom of it from Sally. It read: "This letter was not meant personally, consequently, I opened it. Now that I have done so, I cannot help saying that no one should pay any attention to anonymous letters. I think this note especially damnable."

She not only did this, but she called me up and told me she had opened the letter, and exactly what was in it, so that I was warned before Jack got home. Surely, you must like Sally for this.

Of course, after Jack heard my version of the story, he knew that only Alice or Karl could have written the letter. Naturally he did not dream that my sister could have done it, consequently he jumped at the conclusion it had been a deep-laid plan of Karl's to get me back to him even though I was Jack's wife.

Poor, simple-minded Karl! He wouldn't have thought of such a thing in a thousand years. He's not clever enough.

Have you seen the accounts of the wedding of Beatrice Grimshaw and Dick Summers? There's a couple whose married life I shall follow with great interest. Beatrice, of course you know, is a young woman of great common sense, but Dick Summers is even more erratic than Jack. They are going out to Hollywood, where there are more pretty girls ten city blocks than anywhere else in the world, and Dick is right in among them.

Truly, Dee will have a splendid opportunity to exercise that common sense if she remains normal and happy.

Give my regards to Walter, dear. But don't for the love of me, tell him that I have at least by implication advised you not to marry him or any other man.

I don't know when I will be home. When you have decided what to do write me, and we will talk about the shop. Just now, with my own affairs in such a tangle, and my father in such a serious condition, I am not much account. I am only your distracted friend.

LESLIE.

How To Make Homes Cozy

VARIETY IN HANGINGS

If only for variety's sake, it is good practice to take down a picture or other hanging from one wall and change its position with that of another hanging. Either in the corner or another corner. Sometimes it is good to take down a hanging from one wall and put the one that has been on display away for a rest.

Red And Blue Harmony

Of the two colors, red and blue, blue is the more sensitive. But red also must be used with discretion. Two tones of red closely allied do not harmonize well, just as two tones of blue clash.

Any tones of red or blue, in which there is quite a bit of yellow, are good to use in combinations. But the darker red and blue colors should not be used with any other of the darker colors. They make a drab and dull display in a room.

Darker, red tones, with little yellow in them, may be used in the same room only when they are as far apart as possible and when there is not too much of either to draw attention to it. The same formula may be applied to the darker blue tones.

Reds that tend more toward the violet shade do not make good combinations with the reds that have a little yellow in them. Where there is much yellow in the red, and the color tends toward the orange shade, the combination of that color and the violet red is harmonious and effective.

On the same basis, blues that are more violet in color may be placed together with those nearest the green shade, although this combination is not so effective as the orange red and red violet group, because of the greater sensitivity of blue.

But the shades of blue that can be put together with some degree of harmony and beauty are the lighter and the darker tones of that color.

Adventures Of The Twins

CROSS PATCH GETS INTO TROUBLE

"The last riddle was too easy," said the Riddle Lady.

"They are more fun when they are easy," said Nancy kindly.

"They are not," declared Cross Patch. "I like them hard."

"Oh, dear me! What very bad manners!" whispered Miss Muffet to Bo Peep. "But he's had no bringing up, poor thing, so what could you expect."

Well, perhaps, this one will suit you better," said the Riddle Lady. "It is very short and it doesn't rhyme:

"What is as crooked as a pretzel, as hard as a bone, as tight as a new shoe, as safe as a bank, and as puzzling as a riddle?"

It comes in shoe-laces, wood and oceans.

Everybody looked at Cross Patch. "Can you guess that one?" asked the Wise-Man-Of-Our-Town.

Cross Patch shifted from one foot to the other. "Oh, that's easy!" he said. "It's a—It's a—why, it's a—Oh, I think I'll have to go and get my coat. I feel as though I was catching cold."

"What's that the way?" laughed Jack Spratt. "Some people are never satisfied."

Nobody could guess the answer. They guessed everything from ships to a shoe-button.

And finally what do you think! The Riddle Lady had to tell them. "It's a knot," she said. "Knots come in shoe-laces, don't they?"

"Yes," said Nancy.

"And in wood? You often see those round funny places in boards that sometimes drop out and leave holes. Well, they are called knots, too!"

"That's right," said Nick.

"And in the ocean nobody says miles," went on the Riddle Lady. "Captains of ships always say that a boat can go so many knots an hour. A knot's a little more than a mile."

"That's a good one but a hard one," said Doctor Foster. "I never could have guessed it."

"Here is an easy one then," said the Riddle Lady.

"Roly Poly is as fat as butter—yet you can see his ribs. Indeed he has to have hoops to hold him together."

"He has two crowns to his head, but no eyes or ears. Nothing but a nose."

"Who is Roly Poly?"

"Is it the Fat Man of Bombay?" asked Little Boy Blue.

"Oh, ho!" shouted Nick. "He has eyes and ears, hasn't he? And you can't see his ribs, can you?"

"That's right—you can't," said Little Boy Blue.

"I know what it is," said Tom Tucker. "It's a barrel. I know because we have one in the cellar to keep molasses in. I like it on my head and butter."

"That's right, Tommy," said the Riddle Lady. "What would you like for a prize?"

"A knife," said Tommy quickly. "No one can ever seem to find one to cut my bread for me."

"A queer prize, but you shall have it."

Talking Too Much, Sin Of Many Wives

BY CYNTHIA GREY

A good many people think Sadee Dean is a social climber, but she isn't. The parties she gives are calculated to help Dean, her husband, to get along.

Sadee confided this to me just before the dinner she gave a month ago in honor of her husband's employer and his wife.

There were sixteen people at Sadee's dinner that night, and all of the women were dressed much more impressively than Mrs. Davis, the wife of Dean Doan's "boss."

Mr. Davis sat, of course, at Sadee's right, and Sadee talked earnestly to him about Dean.

"Dean's the sort of man who has to be on his mettle," I heard her say. "He'll never make much out of that southern Ohio territory, where he has no competition. But if you'd put him on selling bonds up here in town where the fight is he'd be a wonder."

"Why, when Dean was courting me he just let things slide without talking marriage at all. And then an old beau of mine came to see me. And that changed things. We were married in a month."

She sat back and waited for that to sink in. I could see that Mr. Davis was embarrassed by Sadee's plea to give her husband a chance to make more money.

Suddenly he turned to the woman at his right and began to talk to her about homing pigeons.

After dinner Sadee seated herself near Mrs. Davis and asked her if she'd rather play bridge or mah jongg. But Mrs. Davis said she played neither—that she was too nervous to do much card playing or reading. Sadee was most sympathetic.

"Terrible things, nerves," said she. "I feel sure that if you'd drink milk and get some flesh on your bones you'd be a lot better. I'm going to ask you to see my doctor. He cured me of indigestion."

Shortly Mr. and Mrs. Davis said good night and left.

"Did you ever see such a couple of frumps?" Sadee exclaimed. "I talked my head off to Mr. Davis, and never a word could I get from him. I put in a good word for you, too, Dean, about changing your territory."

Dean groaned. "I'll never get it changed now," he said. "Davis is as stubborn as a mule, and now that he knows I want another one I'll never get it. Especially after what you said to his wife about her bones." (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

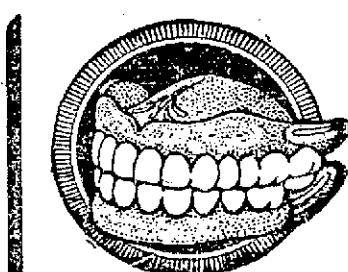

Says Dangerous Varicose Veins Can Be Reduced at Home

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice that anyone in this world can give is to get a prescription that many physicians are now prescribing.

two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soap you will notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that it dissolves goitre and wens and causes them to disappear. It can be secured at any pharmacy. Voigt's Drug Store, Schlitz Bros. RADIO 'STS MOURN AS FAMOUS PIANIST GETS HIS FREEDOM

Money Pours in to Snodgrass as He Approaches End of Prison Term

Although he is known as the King of the Ivories, Harry M. Snodgrass, "world's greatest radio entertainer" and a prisoner in the Missouri state prison, is not a negro as many people believe. He received his nickname not from the "snotted cubes" but rather for his wonderful ability as pianist. Mr. Snodgrass is known by practically every radio fan in the United States for his wonderful ability as a pianist. He plays concerts on Monday nights from station WOL, Jefferson City, Mo. He is American born, white, 29 years of age, weighs 120 pounds, and is married. He was sent to prison from St. Louis, Mo., for a term of three years for attempted robbery of a candy store while in intoxicated and has been a model prisoner. He leaves prison Jan. 10.

On Wednesday Jan. 14 he will give his farewell concert at which time large contributions of money sent by unseen admirers will be presented to him. Prison authorities already have received more than $700 for him and it is estimated that he will receive as much as $2,000 before he goes. According to figures given out by prison authorities contracts offered to him by orchestras from New York to San Francisco would give him a job for more than ten years.

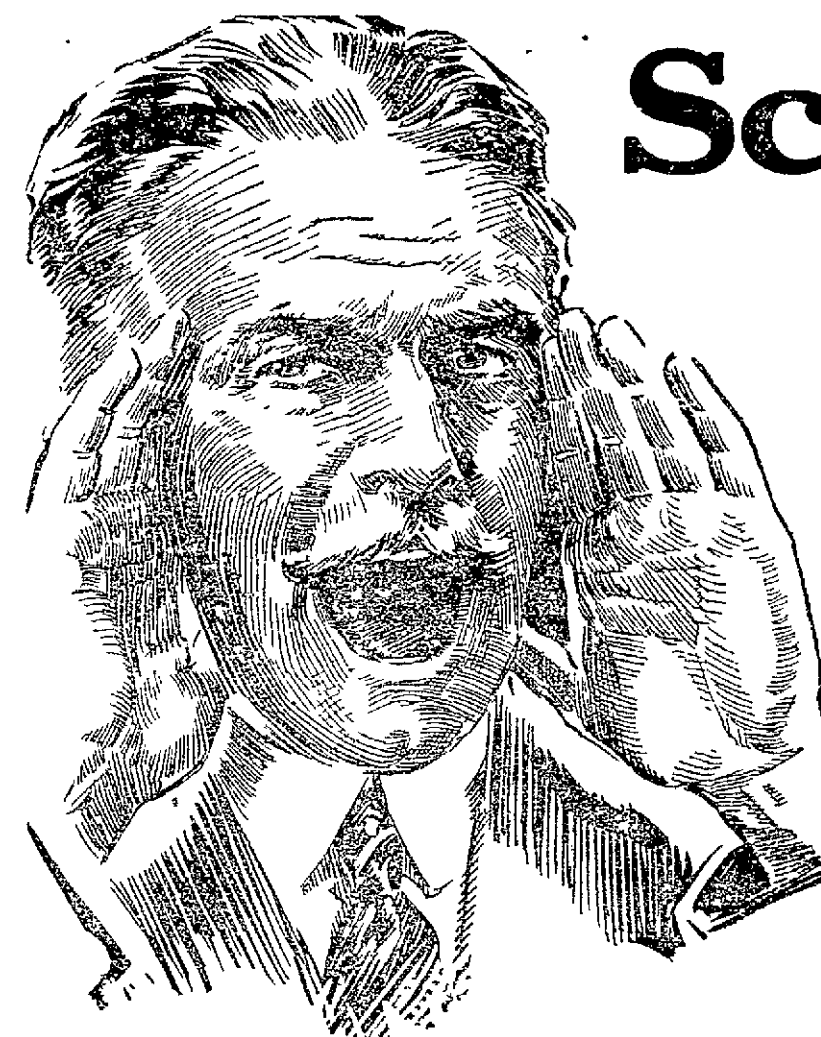

Mr. Snodgrass first came into public notice with his playing of "Three O'Clock in the Morning" as a soloist of the Missouri state prison band. So many demands came for this selection that he now plays it as the second or third of his regular concert and often closes with it. Another of his favorites is "Kitten on the Keys." Appleton radio fans are hoping that he will continue to broadcast from St. Louis stations after he leaves the prison which he probably will do. It is likely that petitions will be circulated in cities of the country and sent to him such as his great popularity with his radio listeners.

URGE POLICE CODE FOR DISCUSSION OF CRIME

A special code may be used by chiefs of police in Wisconsin for exchange of messages relating to the search for criminals, stolen automobiles and the like according to Chief George T. Trim of the Appleton police department. The chief has just received a book containing the code recommended by the International Police conference association. It was written by Police Commissioner Enright of New York, who is president of the association.

Lawrence Wrestlers Make Good Progress In Working For Meet

Corsh Blackburne Picks Lee, Kneip, Purvis and Nobles as Leaders in Their Classes

Wrestling great strides have been made according to the reports of the Lawrence wrestling team. The team has been training out nearly three times a week for the past month, and the results of their training are evident. The team has made a tentative choice of four men who are leaders in their classes and who will probably be the nucleus of the team in the near future. These men are Lee, Kneip, Purvis and Nobles. They are all physical athletes and have been working hard to secure their places in the team. The team is now working on the technique of the various holds and is making good progress. The team is expected to be ready for the meet in a few days.

Don Lee, a native of Japan, has been taking on all comers in the 115 pound class, and is making a wonderful showing. Kneip is a leader among the 125 pounders. Arnold Purvis is good at 145 pounds. Nobles is good at 175 pounds. The team is now working on the technique of the various holds and is making good progress. The team is expected to be ready for the meet in a few days.

Hickman most of the wrestlers have won their training bouts by conditioning work with Blackburne. Some of the older men who have had previous experience, however, are picking up new holds under Blackburne's direction and would give some of the professional plenty to do in a match.

WISCONSIN QUINT READY FOR WABASH

Madison—Wisconsin faces Wabash Friday night at basketball in the curtain raiser of the season. Coach Walter E. Menzies has been driving his men during the past ten days in an effort to develop a smoother working machine. The team will be handicapped by the loss of "Doc" Spomer, veteran forward, who is nursing an old injury to his knee.

Contrary to expectations, Menzies has been working Varney at center in place of Wackman who was shifted to forward. Capt. Dierbold will form the bulk of the defense. Barker, who is expected to take up his duties at forward, is at the other guard post. Merkle and Martell are in line for the other forward post. Martell was captain of the freshmen team last season. Wabash has a reputation of always having strong quints, ranking second in the nation with DePaul and Franklin.

DEMAND OUTLINE OF HUNTER, RYAN

Madison—Outlines of the new football team and Paul Hunter, a former member of the University of Wisconsin, are in the hands of the coaching staff. The outlines of the team are as follows: Hunter, a former member of the University of Wisconsin, is expected to take up his duties at forward, is at the other guard post. Merkle and Martell are in line for the other forward post. Martell was captain of the freshmen team last season. Wabash has a reputation of always having strong quints, ranking second in the nation with DePaul and Franklin.

LAWRENCE AQUATIC SQUAD SEEKS MEETS

With but a week to go for the aquatic season of twenty-five men, Coach A. C. Denney of Lawrence is looking for more swimmers at the schools and colleges. The Appleton swimmer, Paul G. Lee, is expected to take up his duties at forward, is at the other guard post. Merkle and Martell are in line for the other forward post. Martell was captain of the freshmen team last season. Wabash has a reputation of always having strong quints, ranking second in the nation with DePaul and Franklin.

Chicago Has Big Year In Every Sport

Chicago—The city of Chicago is having a big year in every sport. The city has won the World Series in baseball, the NFL championship in football, and the Stanley Cup in hockey. The city has also won the Olympic Games in 1904 and 1932. The city has a long and proud history of sports, and it is expected to continue to be a major center of sports in the future.

BADGER TRACK COACH INVENTS TIMING DEVICE

Runners Able to Check Up on Stride and Time with New Machine

Madison—Wisconsin track athletes are having a new experience these days under direction of T. E. Jones, under coach, who has invented a new timing machine which officials claim promises to revolutionize the track coaching game. The device is merely a wooden box with a bell in it, so constructed and timed that the bell rings at regular intervals of from a second to 100 seconds. The machine will be invaluable in telling runners to judge pace, and will save the coach time in personally timing a runner. In the opinion of Coach Jones, a runner attempting a 50-second quarter will set the machine to ring every 20 seconds. Each time he completes one of the three laps in the indoor track, he can check up on whether he is running ahead or behind schedule. The scheme works on distance runs, also, it is said.

Track stars already are working with the machine at the Badger armory. When the outdoor season opens, Coach Jones intends to establish a timing machine at each end of the 220-yard marks and check up on the men in the same way during the outdoor practice. Jones predicts the machine will be of even greater value in outdoor work when indoor.

George Hills Stops Here On Way To Match

George Hills, former Appleton wrestler, stopped here Thursday on his way to Green Bay where he is slated to grapple Mike Zanovitch, Lithuanian mat expert Friday night. Hills visited some of his numerous friends here and called at the Post-Crescent offices where he stated his desire to stage a match in his former hometown. The big grappler looks to be in fine shape for his coming match, and states he is going good and in excellent condition. He has met some of the world's greatest grapplers since leaving Appleton and has learned a great deal in these matches, he says. Hills and Zanovitch are said to have a very even match, which promises an interesting bout for valley fans at Green Bay.

ST. NORBERTS UNDAUNTED BY ALGOMA'S 19-18 WIN

De Pere—Notwithstanding the defeat of St. Norbert's college in basketball at Algoma normal, Coach George Carey is optimistic as to the balance of the season. The team showed lack of practice and with intensive drilling for the next two weeks, should round into championship form, according to the mentor. The Algoma encounter was considered a practice tip and will in no way affect the chances of the team in the non-conference college race. The score was close 19 to 18, in favor of the normals.

Expect Hectic Season On Basketball Courts Of Western Colleges

Wisconsin, Ohio and Iowa Seem to Have Best Chances of Winning Big Ten Championship

Chicago—A hectic basketball season in the Western conference is forecast in information emanating from the schools of the Big Ten, where pre-season practice is in full swing. Wisconsin, Ohio and Iowa seem to have the best prospects, graduation having played havoc with other teams.

The title last season was shared by Chicago, Illinois and Wisconsin, all of which won eight games and lost four. A defeat by Wisconsin in the final game cost the Maroons the undisputed championship.

The Badgers have five lettermen, not all regulars as the nucleus of their 1924 combination. Illinois has only Captain Maurer, forward, and Lape of the regulars to street. Although sophomore material is plentiful, Chicago is a little better off with Captain Weiss, guard, Alyce center, and Barnes, forward, as manstays for a new team.

Ohio virtually has a veteran team. Jack Cameron, captain, Cunningham, center, Shaw, Seifer, Miner and Matusek are back, and the Buckeye team is rounding into shape as a result of practice for several weeks.

Cosch Sam Barry of Iowa has Captain Janse and Laue forwards, Jensen, center, and Hogan, sophomore, guard, as material for a team calculated to be strong in the title scramble. The quintet also has the advantage of early practice.

Northwestern, which started with little last year and finished the season without winning a game already has received a jolt in the announced ineligibility of Captain Alva Graham who is barred because of three years of collegiate play, one with the Purple and two previously.

Michigan is perhaps the hardest hit of any team in the conference. It lost Duke Binks and Dene by graduation and Moeridge, Henderson and McWood by ineligibility. Captain Haggerty, forward, Doyle, center, and Cherry, guard are back. Minnesota is pretty well broken up with only Captain Dunder, forward, guards, and Rasey forward, as veteran material.

Alhambra, Calif.—Jackie Fields, national amateur lightweight champion, won a decision over Danny Woods, Los Angeles.

McGraw's next baseball tour will extend to Brazil where his "left-handers" will be right at home with the other nuts.

JACK SHARKEY CLOUTED A NEW YORK REFEREE ON THE CHIN BECAUSE HE DIDN'T LIKE HIS DECISION. THIS IS SO MUCH NICER THAN GROWING ABUSIVE.

The crossword puzzle craze isn't likely to handicap ball players in the spring camps. One must know how to spell in order to work the things.

Dempsey has been asked to fight on the coast. It is probably true, then, that Mabel Normand has retired.

While it may be true Ty Cobb has revolutionized the game, the records show fans in St. Louis still throw pop bottles.

We don't know what's holding up the Benny Leonard-Mickey Walker fight. Maybe Benny can't make the welterweight limit.

More than $2,000,000 was spent for ball players last season, if you want to know where all the ivory in this country is going to.

SUGGESTION TO GOLF WRITERS WHY NOT REFER TO DORBY JONES AS THE STYLIST OF THE LINK?

Pennant Plays In Basketball

By COACH H. B. ORTNER
Cornell, Eastern Champions
FOUR-MAN OFFENSIVE

Offensive play to start just ahead of center and usually used when opponents have all their men set in a five-man defense position.

All four offensive men, who swing into the play, start off with the ball being passed by the middle man, who should either be the center or a rugged built forward, who is both clever with the ball and in shooting from about the foul line.

Number one crosses the ball on a criss cross pass just ahead and to his left to number four, cutting into the ball so that the possibility of it being intercepted is minimized.

Immediately gets rid of the ball on a fast push or underhand pass to number three, who cuts from the extreme right side of the court to meet the criss cross pass just behind the foul circle.

From there the ball goes back to number one, who has cut down behind his first pass and who comes to meet this pass from number three at just about the foul line, where the final play is decided by the circumstances arising.

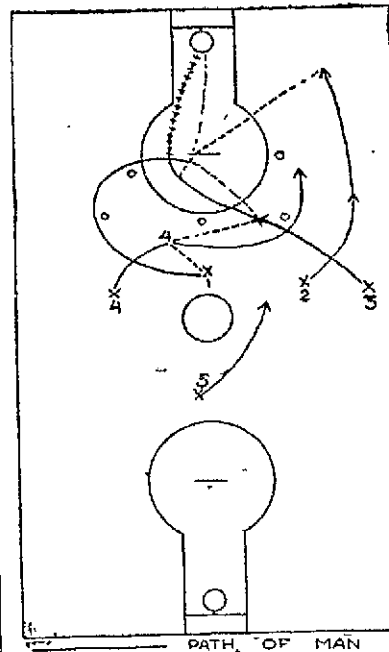

First, he has the teammate number two, who should be on his way to the basket to the right side of the court, ready to receive a pass, or he may pivot and hand the ball to number three, who has followed in line with his pass and by such a pass a legal block of number one by number three.

Number one also has the alternative to feint and dribble under the basket and then shoot or shoot from the zone line position.

On any such shot there are teammates going into the basket, from each side so that chances for recovery of the ball are very good.

MARQUETTE ON NAVY SCHEDULE FOR 1925

Annapolis, Md.—The United States Naval academy's football program for the 1925 season calls for eight games, all but two of which have been definitely decided upon. The 1925 program, as announced today, follows:
Oct. 3, William and Mary, at Annapolis.
Oct. 10, Marquette, at Annapolis.
Oct. 17, Princeton at Annapolis.
Oct. 24, Western Maryland, pending.
Oct. 31, Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich.
Nov. 7, Open.
Nov. 14, Bucknell at Annapolis.
Nov. 21, Team will rest.
Nov. 23, Army at New York

Umpire Sets Record For Big Leagues

Boston—Tommy Connolly, dean of American League umpires, has established what is believed to be an umpirical record. Over a period of three years Connolly has not found it necessary to put a man out of a game. That speaks well for his decisions. Billy Evans, with two full seasons and until August of his third year, without giving a player the gate, was the best previous record.

KNOX FIVE POINTS FOR OPENER WITH RIPONITES

Galesburg, Ill.—Coach John Van Liew has taken over forty-five candidates for the Siwash basketball team, including three of last year's team. Smith, forward, Christopher and Senn, guards, form the nucleus for the team. The team opens its schedule with Ripon here Jan. 10. Coach Van Liew will take the squad on swing through Iowa meeting Coe and Cornell, and will close the season with a trip to Lawrence, Ripon and Beloit.

KIMBERLY READY FOR INVASION OF OSHKOSH QUINTET

Millmen Build One of Strongest Fives in History to Meet
B'Gosh Team

By Special Correspondent
Kimberly—Kimberly Clark Athletics Friday night are due to meet one of the strongest basketball squads of Oshkosh in the Kimberly hall when the Oshkosh B'Gosh quint comes here. A preliminary game between the Hilbert five and the Holy Name Seniors will open the program.

The Athletics have played two games in the season, losing their first one to the Oconto Legion and winning the second from the Kohler five.

Kimberly has gathered one of the strongest teams in its history and is looking for a victory Friday, despite the formidable record of its rivals. Louis Loose, captain and manager, is holding down one of the forward positions, with Irvin Koll, a star of last year's Appleton high school champions, as his running mate. Ozzie Cooke, former Lawrence player, plays center or guard, alternating with Elmer Boettcher, a Kimberly veteran. Scheurel and Clarke and Klund alternate at guard.

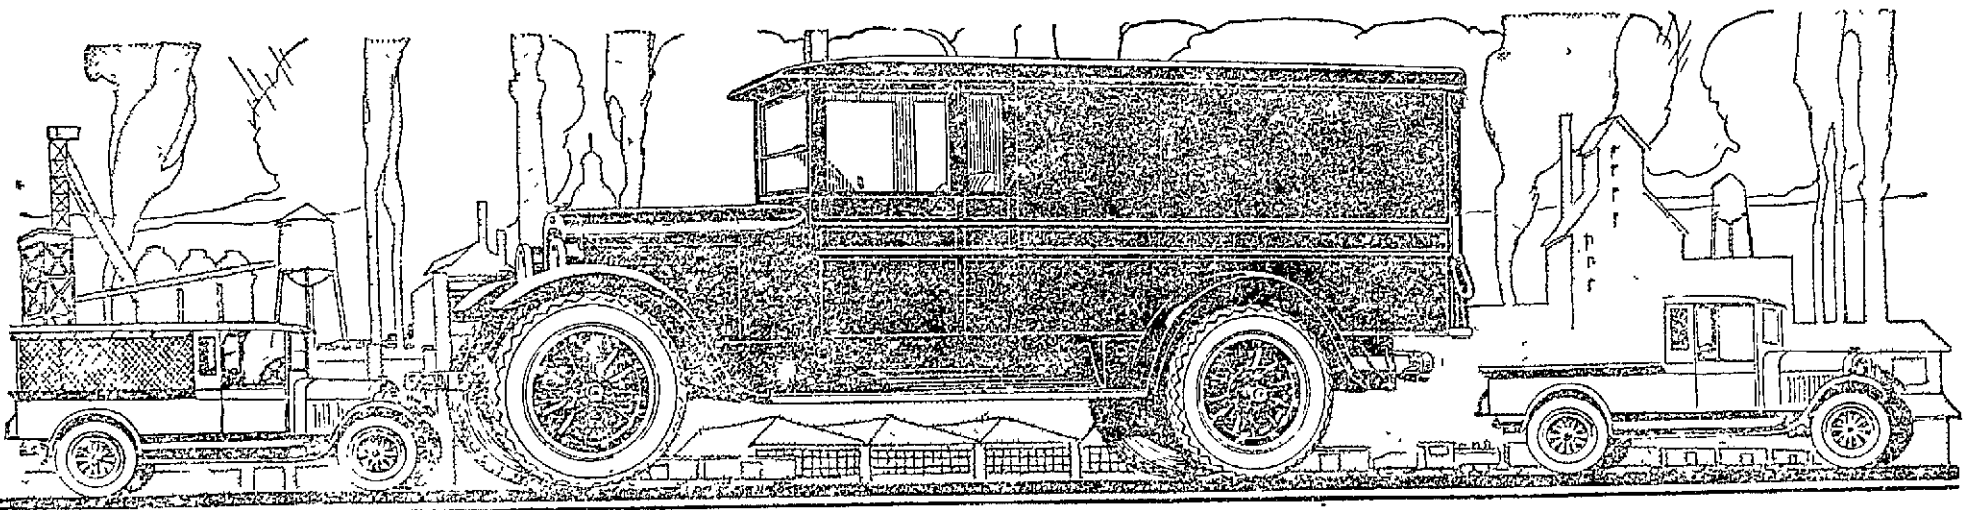

Kimberly also has scheduled a game with the Lena Legionaires there for Tuesday night.

The Christmas Story of Lotta Worth

Who is she?
Where does she come from?
She is a cosmopolitan woman who has traveled far and wide—who delights in the newest things to be seen in the shops—there is scarcely a day that she cannot be seen on the streets of Appleton—in and out of everywhere—gleaming all.
You know her—she lives in your midst—she travels under the name of Lotta Worth because it is so suggestive of what she finds about town.
Follow her closely—she will give you many valuable suggestions for Christmas gifts—she will keep you up-to-date even if you cannot travel.

A few weeks ago when in New York, I marveled at the freshness and clearness of everyone's complexion. I commented on this to Amy who took me to a Beauty Shop to learn the fastidious woman's secrets. Such a treat as I had! I was introduced to the loveliest skin creams imaginable! Quite naturally, I was very much interested and proceeded to take down the names of these marvelous creams and lotions.

You can imagine my surprise upon my return to Appleton to find that these identical preparations could be purchased at Dunne Beauty Shop, and I thought I had made a discovery known only to New Yorkers.

But to get back to Christmas shopping—my visit in quest of those toilet preparations led me to an array of gifts for the toilette that proved amazing. It is difficult at times to select something girls will appreciate, but one glance around in this department assured me that many of my problems of what to give some close friends, had been pleasantly solved. There were the daintily scented perfumes and toilet waters, created I am sure by perfumers who blend the most exquisite of odors as an artist blends colors—powder such as I know many of them use—and the ever necessary rouge, lip sticks and cold cream. Then there were toilet sets composed of powder, lip stick, toilet water and the many other things so necessary to the dainty toilette.

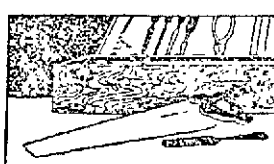

How often do we hear of the proverbial Easter Bonnet, but who ever thinks of their Christmas Bonnet?

I do think it quite as important to have a new looking hat for Christmas as it is to have one for Easter. My, but my winter hats look dilapidated by the time Christmas comes—I always treat myself just before the holiday season to one good looking hat. If the weather and fashions permit I buy a silk one, which is not too summery to be ridiculous and at the same time not too wintry to outlive its serviceability. In this way, I have a new Christmas Bonnet and feel well attired at any party, when my gown is topped with the latest chic hat instead of a heavy velvet one that has been on and off my head for two months.

I don't order loads of hats at once—only to have them grow out of date and shabby looking—I buy one at a time, and then I can afford to purchase oftener.

Take a hint from me and run down to Markow's and see the New Glenwood Models before your round of holiday social activities start and buy a new Christmas Bonnet, so you'll look like someone at Mrs. Styles' Mah Jongg Party or Mrs. Smart's Bridge.

Mother surely would enjoy that fine Electric Washer we saw at the Fox River Hardware Company, because Mrs. Jones said just the other day, that washing is a pleasure with a good Electric Washer.

I don't see how any woman can be without a Vacuum Cleaner when she can buy the Grand Prize Bureka for $45.00 and get the attachments FREE.

The Fox River Hardware Company has some real attractive gifts for Mother, and did you notice all of the fine toys? There were sleds, Skates, and that new Scooter, Conster Wagons, Velocipedes, Flivvers, Kiddie Cars, and almost anything a boy or girl could wish for in the line of toys.

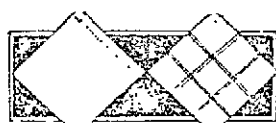

It will pay you to drop in and look around. You can surely find just what you want.

Sister Jane and I just completed a shopping assignment that was lots of good fun and delightfully pleasant, when we had anticipated considerable difficulty and effort. Because we are free to go at any hour of the day we drew down the task of buying "Play House Things" for the little folks of four families.

On our list of things, that Santa had been written about by our numerous nieces and nephews—Doll Buggies, were the predominating favorites. So we set forth on our buying mission and by great good fortune, went to The Wichman Furniture Co. first. Surely we saved ourselves a whole lot of time and effort by stopping at this progressive furniture store at the outset, for not only did we find just the Doll Buggies that the children wanted best of all (Lloyd Doll Carriages) but we were able to buy the identical Little Play Tables and Chairs, Rocking Chairs and Doll Beds.

We just know that every single one of our little relatives is going to say "That Santa brought just what they wrote him to bring."

Here's the greatest problem—find a charming gift for the man without vices—the bachelor who neither smokes, drinks nor gambles.

A trip to Bauerfeld's Store will reveal some splendid ideas—beautiful imported linen handkerchiefs hand hemstitched with monograms embroidered in any colors desired. Striking monograms are made with cut work and embroidery.

No less welcome are a dozen pairs of silk socks. Those in black or brown are always useful and in good taste. They may be had at various prices depending on the quality.

For a less expensive gift a pair of gloves will be found most appropriate. Scotch plaid scarfs, both for evening and daytime wear make very handsome gifts—all the more so if they have a large monogram embroidered in one corner.

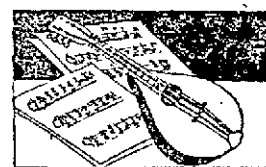

I just love to ramble through the toy shop at this season and if I had the time I'd take all the kiddies I could to see Santa Claus and his numerous gifts—I even get a thrill myself—it's no wonder when there are such charming toys to be had.

For the tiny tots are such cute tinker toys of every description—and the novelty blocks this year are most unusual—those with the alphabet serve as an instructive amusement, too. Toys, toys, toys, many of them—and really so educational! Just the very things for the tiny tots to play with.

But when I took Andrew to the Outagamie Hdw. Co. he had eyes for nothing but the trains, tracks and engines—and I could scarcely blame the youngster—the tracks with their signals, lights and tunnels are so realistic and the trains wind in and out and around with such magic perfection that one can almost feel the realism of it all. The mechanical toys interested him also, as did the tool chests (and there was a great array of them—but he came back to the trains before we went home—and I was just as glad to see them again—they were so fascinating! I didn't hate to worry about what he'd like for Christmas.

There was at least a hundred things we looked at for Father and Mother. Among the impressive things I remember were Washing Machines such wonderful aluminum ware, carving sets, safety razors, tools, etc.

When we finally went home it was a very tired but happy little family that went to sleep to dream of Gifts from The Outagamie Hdw. Co. toyland.

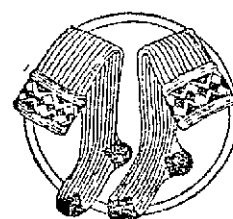

A house without music is like a room without windows.

Music seems to enliven the spirit—and, who was it that said "Music hath charms to soothe the savage beast!"

Especially at this jolly season, we all need music, so if you don't know what to give Jane or Mabel and they haven't a ukulele, I know they'd just adore one from Meyer-Seeger. The music is so soft and the instrument so easy to play!

I'm giving John a violin—the boys seem to have a craze for them and they get such a heap of pleasure out of one.

Last year, Madge and George gave us a Sonora Phonograph, and you can't imagine how much we use it—not only do we like it for ourselves for the opera records and for dancing, but it's so good for the children—it cultivates their taste for good music while they are young. There isn't a single opera that they can't hum—and they know the names and composers of each one—that's a good training alone!

I wanted a sweater for Fred that he could use for skating in the winter, as well as for driving in the spring and fall, so I went to Cameron and Schultz. They always have the newest and best.

There were at least thirty things I could have bought—and all so reasonable—some lovely flannel shirts, heavy woolen gloves, the latest patterns in hosiery, such useful slip-over jackets and leather vests—but the mufflers were just too soft and alluring to pass by—the colors were so gay and warm looking that I had to get him one—one of those camel's hair that feel so comfy—and Fred can use it in the winter even if he isn't skating—and they had such lovely new neckwear to match the shirt that I bought him—he can always use an extra shirt anyhow.

Remember—if it's anything you wish to get for "him"—Cameron-Schultz Clothing Store is the place to get it.

It must be wonderful to be a bride today! People are so sensible and inventions so perfect now.

I was at the "First Aid Shower" given for Mary Jane the other day—you know she marries the second of January.

And if she didn't get the most wonderful gifts imaginable! It gave me many ideas for Christmas too—and I know you'll be interested in learning all about them.

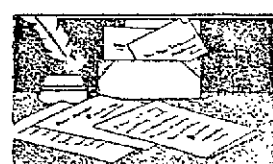

Maude and Jessie gave her a Torrington Vacuum Cleaner together. It's a beauty, too! Ella gave her a Universal electric grill, which boasts two pans—a broiler and a toaster. It's a real two in one.

Grace gave her a Universal electric waffle iron—it's so nice and compact too—not like those clumsy old waffle irons we have. And, my dear, the electric percolator that Polly gave her is enough to make any one green with envy, especially since it has an automatic control, which turns the current off if the water all boils away. I gave her an electric iron—I know what a joy mine is!

She also received many electric lamps—a darling little one for the boudoir—a lovely Japanese desk lamp—two floor lamps and so many other electric appliances that when you stood surrounded by all these useful, attractive gifts, you felt as though you were at The Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co., for that's where everyone bought them!

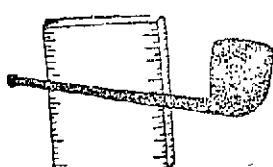

Such a terrible temptation at Christmas time, when one has just made a lovely negligee out of last winter's perfectly good evening gown (everyone had seen it so often). There were so many gifts to buy, but I simply had to have a pair of those wonderful varicolored brocaded metal cloth mules to wear with my negligee—and they really were very reasonable. I had gone to Kinney's in search of a pair of pink quilted satin bed room slippers—the ones that have the little pompoms in the same color—I wanted a pair for Dora—they make such cunning, useful gifts. While I was there, I saw some of those lovely warm Comfy Slippers. They had them in all sizes, for tiny tots and to fit daddy—and such an array of colors. Oh, I mustn't forget to tell you of the daintiest of all—the soft felt lined slippers made of ribbons, with cute, rosbud trimmings.

Sister Betty in Los Angeles is such a notoriously poor correspondent that I am sending her a beautiful large box of stationery and a fountain pen selected at Schlitz Bros. Drug Store. I found a very interesting assortment of Stationery there—large boxes—small boxes—and in every desirable color. Their fountain pens and pencils too, solved two gift problems for me. You know you can have any name that you desire engraved on them in gold and really they make dandy gifts.

As I was going out I noticed that they had a splendid assortment of pipes and cigarette holders. The girl told me that I could also have any name I wished engraved on these. Really I think a modern drug store like Schlitz Bros. is a dandy place to do your Christmas shopping.

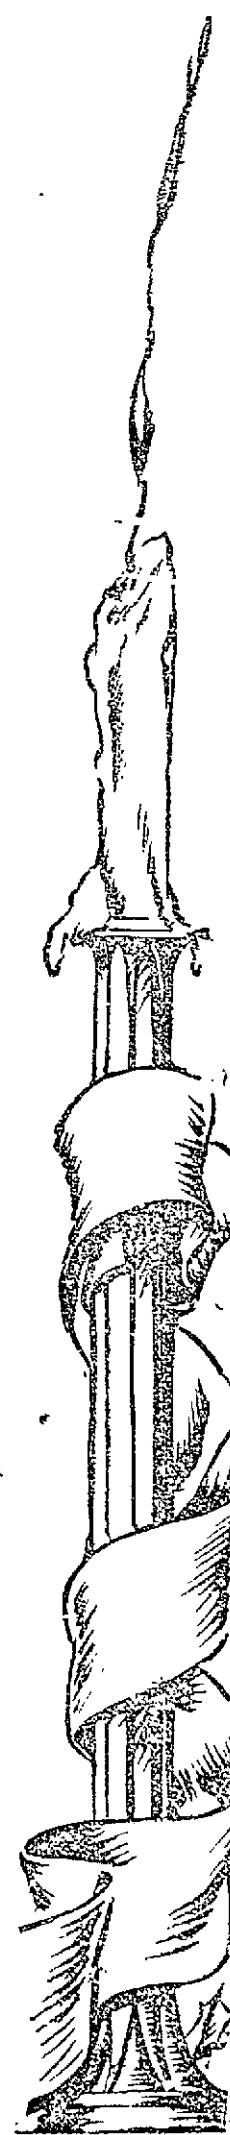

Don has spoken so often of his desire to own a good imported pipe, and on discovering that the United Cigar Store carried in its stock the famous London made pipes of Alfred Dunhill—priced from 8 dollars to ten dollars—the aristocrat of the pipe family—I selected one and at the same time purchased a handy Lockite tobacco pouch. The salesman informed me that it keeps tobacco fresh and makes it possible to carry tobacco without it's showing bulky in the pocket.

While at the United Cigar Store I couldn't help but think how pleased smokers would be with gifts from this store. I saw humidors of what I am sure are the favorite blends of tobacco for pipe smokers—cans of cigarettes in holiday wrappings—Melachros, Murads, Johnnie Walkers, Tarrytons, English Ovals, Fatimas, Lucky Strikes, Camels, Chesterfields and Omars. And there were boxes of cigars almost without end attractively wrapped for Christmas. John West, who has the United Cigar Store Agency told me that they willingly order any special brand of tobacco or cigarettes for men if its not in stock—but they seldom have to order as theirs is about as complete a stock of smoking supplies as a man could desire.

And they carry other things besides smokers' supplies—playing cards, poker chips, Amity purses of genuine pigskin priced from $1.50 to $5.00 and Furst and Kraemer Candles.

I won't worry any more about the Christmas present for a man who is difficult to please. I'll just tell my buying troubles to John West at the United Cigar Store.

JEWISH BEDOUINS NOW WOULD RETURN TO ANCIENT FAITH

Part of Ancient Tribe Seeks Government Aid to Return to Judaism

By Associated Press
Jerusalem—Part of a Bedouin tribe in Palestine numbering about 1,000 persons, claiming to be descendants of Jews who remained in Palestine following the destruction of the Temple, have applied to the government for help in their efforts to return to Judaism.

The tribe known as "Arab el Sima" is scattered over Upper Galilee. Some of the tribesmen are at present encamped at Tabia, on the northern shore of Lake Tiberias, whence they addressed their request to the Rabbis of Safed. The claim as descendants of Jews is based by the elders of the tribe on documents said to be in their possession, showing their ancestors to have been part of the Jewish race. One of the documents of the Sima is a scroll written in Arabic, resembling somewhat in form and content the "Torah" or scroll of the Mosaic Pentateuch. Some of the Sima customs are also said to resemble those of the ancient Jews.

After waiting in vain for action on the part of the Rabbis of Safed who apparently were none too anxious to precipitate a proselytizing activity of such importance, 25 chiefs of the tribe submitted a written application to the government.

GERMAN OFFICER'S CRITIC IS JAILED

By Associated Press
Heilbronn — Julius Heckelmann, a lawyer of this city, recently was sentenced to a prison term of six weeks for denouncing the conduct of German officers during the war. He accused them of gluttoning and drinking.

the request and examine the claims, reported that while there may be some doubt as to the authenticity of the documents, the earnestness of the Bedouins' desire to embrace, or to reembrace, Judaism, was unquestionable.

The authorities are understood to be proceeding very cautiously, fearing the effect upon the Moslem and Christian population of a wholesale conversion of the tribe.

Although Zionist officials have been approached, they have taken no stand in the matter.

The question of the direct descent from the Jews of certain Bedouin tribes of Upper Galilee and the Sinai Peninsula has engaged at various times the attention of Orientalists. There is a belief that the Jews remaining in Palestine after the destruction of the Jewish nation managed to remain true, perhaps clandestinely, to their faith, until forced by Omar to exchange their religion for the Islam. Since then they are believed to have lived outwardly as Mohammedans, while handing down to their children the story of their Jewish ancestry. In this respect the Sima would be not unlike the "Moranos" of Spain and Portugal, who secretly retained their Jewish traditions and practices although compelled by the Inquisition to live as Christians.

HIGH SCHOOL GRID TEAM ENTERTAINED AT HI-Y CLUB DINNER

Catlin Declares Football Makes Better Men of Those Who Play It

High school and college football must have an influence on the everyday life of the participants in order to be worth while, according to Mark Catlin, coach of the Lawrence college 1924 state football champions, who was the principal speaker at the annual Hi-Y club banquet for the high school football team Wednesday evening in the Hi-Y club. Catlin should choose the personality of the players and its lessons should be of great use later in life, he said. As in the game of life, football playing is needed to win. Football develops players' self control. He must stick to the rules no matter what happens in the game and a good coach will not stand for unfair play by his men, Mr. Catlin said. People who think of football simply as entertainment are wrong. Organized teams create real school spirit and raise the morale of the school. Students become much more interested in their school and as a result do better work in all phases of its life. Townspeople take more interest and pride in their community if it has a good football team. Coach Jules Kevin gave a short talk in which he stated that every man of this year's team was out for the love of the game and not with any thoughts of gain or glory. Lee C. Raser stated that the past season was the hardest in years. Five of the best teams in the state were played in this city. This year's basketball team has a real task before it in closing the school athletic year in good shape and making up for the football season just closed. Captain Cliff Courtney gave a short review of the season and a piano selection by Everett Roudshead closed the evening's program.

Mr. Anderson will speak on the alumni association and prospects for the coming year. It is his purpose to draw the alumni into closer contact with the present student body. The gathering will take place in Central Y. M. C. A. and it is expected that 150 graduates will be present. Mr. Anderson may talk to a similar group in Milwaukee Saturday night.
